Probable Occupation of the Place by the Rebels.

The Main Rebel Force Supposed to be Behind Chambersburgh.

Gettysburgh in Possession of the Enemy.

An Order from Ewell to the Citizens of Chambersburgh.

NO LIQUOR TO BE SOLD TO HIS SOLDIERS.

Longstreet's Corps also Said to be Entering Pennsylvania.

LEE AND HIS STAFF NORTH OF THE POTOMAC.

A Call for 30,000 Militia in Pennsylvania.

TELEGRAMS FROM HARRISBURGH.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

HARRISBURGH, Friday, June 26.

BURNSIDE has issued a proclamation from Chambersburgh pledging protection to the citizens unless they offer resistance. He injoins upon them to abstain from dealing out liquor to his soldiers, and if a violation of the order occurs he will seize and destroy the entire stock.

It has been raining all day, making the roads extremely difficult to travel.

Dr. W. FRANK STRAIN, of the Sanitary Commission, has provided all possible means to extend aid to the needy in event of an action.

The propriety of proclaiming martial law is seriously considered, but the matter has not yet been definitely decided.

HARRISBURGH, Friday, June 26.

The main force of the enemy appears to have halted back of Chambersburgh. A large number is concentrating in the mountain passes, but evidently with the intention of awaiting reinforcements, fearing to proceed too far this way with HOOKER in the rear.

Yesterday two rebel cavalry were taken near Chambersburgh. They assert that 23 regiments of infantry, 5,000 cavalry, and 20 pieces of ordnance are not far from that place.

The rebel column at Mercersburgh numbers 5,000 infantry, with 3 pieces of artillery.

The rain to-day has caused the Susquehanna to rise to a considerable extent, which fact will undoubtedly retard the movements of the enemy.

Gettysburgh is occupied by an entire division of the rebels, who strike out in different directions from that point.

Gen. W. F. SMITH has command of the forces on the west bank of the Susquehanna.

The enemy has not yet entered Carlisle, although he is momentarily expected to do so. WHIT.

HARRISBURGH, Friday, June 26.

The drinking-houses were all closed this morning, in obedience to the Mayor's proclamation.

Many of the dry goods stores are also closed.

Large numbers of refugees continue to arrive from the valley.

Gen. KNOX Geaming his forces not strong enough to meet the enemy, evacuated Carlisle last night.

At this writing it is not known whether the town has been occupied by the rebels or not.

Gen. KNOX reports that the rebels are advancing ten thousand strong.

HARRISBURGH, Fr., Thursday, June 26.

The Governor will, by authority of the War Department, issue a proclamation, which will be published to-morrow, calling for 30,000 militia for the defence of the State, to serve for three months. The apportionments for the different counties will also be indicated.

Gen. W. F. SMITH has been assigned to the defences of the Susquehannah River.

Col. MINGES has been assigned to the command of the troops at Bloody Run, Gen. MILROY having been relieved.

The Grey Reserves, of Philadelphia, will be mustered into the service to-day.

Gen. PATTERSON has been assigned to the command of the defences of Philadelphia.

HARRISBURGH, Fr., June 26—9 P. M.

Gen. KNOX, on entering Chambersburgh, issued the following order:

HEADQUARTERS RESERVE CORPS,
ARMY OF NORTHERN VIRGINIA, Monday, June 24,
CHAMBERSBURGH, Wednesday, June 24.

GENERAL ORDER: 1. The sale of intoxicating liquors to this command without written permission from a Major-General, is strictly prohibited.

2. Persons having liquor in their possession are required to report the fact to the Provost-Marshal, or the nearest general officer, stating the amount and kind, that a guard may be placed over it and the man prevented from getting it.

3. Any violation of Part 1, of these orders, or failure to comply with Part 2, will be punished by the immediate confiscation of all liquors in the possession of the offending parties, besides rendering their other property liable to seizure.

4. Citizens of the country through which the army may pass, who are not in the military service, are admonished to abstain from all acts of hostility, upon the penalty of being dealt with in a summary manner. A ready acquiescence to the demands of the military authorities will serve to lessen the rigors of war. By command of

Lieut.-Gen. R. J. EWELL.

A. S. PENDLETON, A. A. General.

Hundreds of horses are being driven over the bridges of the Susquehanna, followed by men, women and children—the defenceless inhabitants of Cumberland Valley.

Gov. CURTIN has received information that the rebels occupied Gettysburgh to-day with ten regiments of infantry, and with cavalry and artillery.

The operator at Gettysburgh, while sending the dispatch to Gov. CURTIN, was ordered to leave before finishing it, to avoid capture.

It is believed that this force intends to strike the Northern Central Railroad, either at Hanover Junction or York, which is distant about thirty miles.

The Governor has also received information that the rebels hold all the passes of South Mountain.

HARRISBURGH, Pa., Friday, June 26—11 P. M.

The rebel force which occupied Gettysburgh to-day was the division of Gen. EARLY, belonging to LONGSTREET'S corps.

This makes two corps which are supposed to have crossed the Potomac.

The troops of LONGSTREET are supposed to have crossed at Shepardstown Ford.

When ROSER'S division of EWELL'S corps arrived at Chambersburgh, the operator was unable to escape. He remained until Wednesday, when he made his escape by the way of London to the Pennsylvania Railroad, and arrived here to-day.

They numbered about 12,000, and had five batteries, with a long train of wagons and ambulances. All the officers were new uniforms, which had no doubt been sent to Hagerstown by rebel sympathizers, in anticipation of their arrival.

When he left, Gen. JOHNSON'S division, belonging to the same corps, was within six miles of the town. The soldiers believed they were going to Harrisburgh, and were very anxious to know how far off it was.

The enemy have made no effort to occupy Carlisle to-day, although they were encamped within four miles of the town.

It has rained all day, and the river is rising.

TELEGRAMS FROM FREDERICK.

[Special to the New-York Times.]

FREDERICK, Md., Friday, June 26—9 P. M.

I have just returned from the vicinity of the South Mountain battle-field, thirteen miles distant from here.

From persons who left Boonsboro this afternoon, I learn that the rebels have all left that place. ANDERSON'S division of LONGSTREET'S corps, which arrived thereon Wednesday night and encamped, left yesterday morning, taking the Waynesboro' road toward Chambersburgh. The force is estimated at from seven thousand to ten thousand, infantry, cavalry and artillery, accompanied by a large wagon train. The whole of LONGSTREET'S corps had crossed the Potomac, and is advancing in different directions into Pennsylvania.

There were but few rebel troops at Hagerstown, yesterday—all gone to Pennsylvania.

LEE and Staff are on this side of the river. R.

TELEGRAMS FROM PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, Friday, June 26—1½ P. M.

The telegraph line to Carlisle has not been working for several hours.

PHILADELPHIA, Friday, June 26.

The Press of this city publishes the following special dispatch from Harrisburgh:

"Gov. CURTIN has received a telegram from the operator at McConnellsburgh, stating that the rebels under Gen. JONES had entered the town with cavalry and artillery, and after a severe skirmish with some troops under Gen. MILROY, drove them out of the place and occupied it.

Gen. MILROY is preparing to drive the rebels out of the town in turn, and a battle may be expected there at any time.

Our force in the vicinity is not very strong, but comprises some of the best troops in the service.

I learn by the evening train that the excitement at Pittsburgh continues unabated, and troops are being rapidly organized all over the Department of Monongahela for the defence of the State.

Gen. MILROY'S army at Bloody Run, now numbers nearly 5,000 men of all arms.

CAPTURE OF A REBEL SPY.

BLOOMSBURGH, Penn., Friday, June 26.

A rebel spy was captured at Catawissa, and will be lodged in jail in this place this afternoon.

OUR HARRISBURG CORRESPONDENCE.

Harrisburgh Excited at Last—Refugees Flocking Into Town—Gen. Andrew Porter Offers His Services.

HARRISBURGH, Penn., Thursday, June 25, 1863.

At no period during the present invasion or that of last year has there been so much excitement in Harrisburgh as now. In fact, if excitement and bewilderment were the chief essentials to discomfit and defeat the rebels, that wished-for result would have been attained. Unfortunately for the threatened people of this district they have but one course to adopt in order to save themselves and protect their property—and that is to meet armed columns with armed columns. The sooner the able-bodied men of Pennsylvania comprehend the exigency of the moment and nerve themselves to the conflict, the less cause will they have for bemoaning the miseries of war. If they want an incentive to urge them onward en masse to annihilate the hordes of cutthroats thieves that are plundering and pillaging their State, let them be reminded of the devastated fields and townships of Eastern Virginia. If destroying, robbing, burning and slaying, form a pleasing spectacle, not only for their fancy but their vision, let them continue to shirk the duty which calls them immediately to the field, and my word for it they will not look in vain for the object of their gaze. It is passing strange that the men of Pennsylvania have not sprung to arms by thousands and grappled with invasion with an earnestness that would leave no doubt as to its final fate. At a time like this it will not do for men who have interests at stake to dash wildly through the streets of Harrisburgh, relying solely upon the inclinations of the rebels to save them and theirs from destruction. Bullets directed by firm hands and nerves wielded by strong arms, are the safeguards of this community.

From all directions people are flocking thither. The Chambersburgh depot all last night was crowded with women and children, who could not find accommodations at the hotels. During the entire day wagons loaded with hay, grain and other articles have been rolling into the city, and in many instances the same commodities were immediately placed on board cars and sent to the towns between here and Easton. At 2 P. M. this morning a noted physician of Carlisle reached here in a buggy, having left that place two hours previous, under the impression that the rebels were within one mile of him. He abandoned his horse, furniture and property of all descriptions.

A number of arrests have recently been made, on suspicion that the parties were spies, but on trial it appeared that the majority of them were simply refugees. To-day three rebel prisoners, attired in the Confederate uniform, were brought to the Provost-Marshal's office. They were taken at a place some distance up the river.

The Veterans of 1812, sixteen in number, offered their services to Gov. CURTIN yesterday. They petitioned in having the privilege of using the old flintlock guns, and wanted a position in the rifle-pits when the time for action comes. Their services were accepted, and to-day they were at a drill-parade, attracting much attention.

Gen. ANDREW PORTER, formerly Provost-Marshal-General under MCCLELLAN, was here yesterday, and offered his services to the Governor.

A prominent citizen of Pittsburgh, who came in from that place to-night, says that Gen. BURNSIDE is prepared to meet any number of rebels. Last week all the manufacturing establishments were closed, and the workmen engaged in building fortifications about the city.

Brig.-Gens. T. C. SMITH and F. S. CHASE arrived to-day, and are stopping at the James House.

Gen. CURTIN ordered to-day that all persons should be prohibited from visiting the telegraph-room unless on strictly military business. A room at the Capitol has been provided and furnished for the use of the correspondents for the newspapers, and in a day or two a Telegraphic Censor will be appointed.

This afternoon a presentation of a magnificent flag was made to the Philadelphia Police force now here, by Mr. JOHN D. WARNER, on behalf of their comrades at home. The presentation was accompanied by a speech, which was responded to in a fitting manner by Mr. GEO. R. SNOW. The company then sat down to a sumptuous collation prepared under the direction of Capt. JOHN SNOW. WHIT.

NEWSPAPER REPORTS.

FROM PITTSBURGH.

A REBEL TELEGRAPH OPERATOR IN COMMUNICATION WITH THE CITY.

From the Pittsburgh Chronicle, June 25.

Last night, about 10 o'clock, a message was received in the telegraph office here from McConnellsburgh, which left no doubt that the line at that point was in possession of the rebels. The rebel operator does not appear to have been gifted with any great degree of sharpness, as he made himself known the moment he attached his instrument, so that the different offices along the line had prompt notice of his presence, and were enabled to prevent him obtaining any information whatever as to what was passing over the line. After a few beautiful messages relative to what the rebels had done and intended doing had been received, it was determined to ascertain where the fellow was, and the following conversation between the operator at Bedford and the rebel took place:

Bedford Office—Where are you?

Rebel—At the foot of Cove Mountain; where are you?

Bedford—At the base of the Laurel Hill Mountain.

The rebel demanded where that was, and reiterated the demand—his words being interlarded with horrible profanity.

Bedford—Them call JENKINS. He'll tell you. He used to steal horses around here.

Rebel—JENKINS will thrash you Yankees yet.

Bedford—What force have you got there?

Rebel—Two hundred thousand, more or less.

Bedford—Where are you bound for?

Rebel—We're going North, and will take charge of the offices along the line in a few days.

Bedford—You'll let us know when you take them, won't you.

After some more language of this kind, the rebel began to lose his temper, and became very abusive, using language which will not bear reporting. In a subsequent conversation with one of the operators, here, he stated that his name was SCANLAN, and that the rebels would be on here very soon. He was very cautious about giving information of any kind, however, and we may say for our boys that he got even less than he gave. After about twenty minutes' play, he stated that he was going to "cut off," as he had been ordered to leave for the North, and that was the last heard from him.

A DISPATCH FROM GOV. CURTIN.

The Chronicle publishes the following dispatch:

HARRISBURGH, Wednesday, June 24.

The rebels in considerable force have advanced this side of Shippensburgh, and hold the country down to the State line. We think the force that is advancing is between eight thousand and ten thousand men.

We cannot estimate the number behind them. They have pillaged the people and destroyed much property.

Be assured that we are not idle, and you may hear of us in a few hours. A. G. CURTIN.

NEW-JERSEY ALL RIGHT.

A PROCLAMATION FROM GOV. PARKER.

Whereas, By the system of computation adopted by the War Department, it is ascertained that the State of New-Jersey has not filled her quota of troops for the service of the United States (although she has responded to all the calls made upon her troops by the Government;)

And whereas, I have applied for authority to raise volunteers to serve for three years, unless sooner discharged, and authority has been given by the War Department to raise recruits for regiments now in the field, and also to raise new regiments, with the restriction that no more than five regiments of infantry and two regiments of cavalry should be under recruitment in the State at one time;

I therefore call upon the citizens of this State to use every exertion to recruit, as speedily as possible, new regiments to serve our country in her hour of need, and also to fill the decimated ranks of those regiments that have sustained the honor of the State on many battle-fields.

The number of men required to fill up the old regiments will be published and apportioned to the different townships and wards of the State, in proportion to the number of men liable to do military duty.

Every man mustered into an old or a new regiment will be duly credited to the State.

Recruiting for five regiments of infantry and one regiment of cavalry will be put in charge of competent officers, to be designated in General Orders.

Given under my hand and privy seal, at Trenton, this twenty-fifth day of June, A. D. eighteen hundred and sixty-three. JOEL PARKER.

Attest:

S. M. DICKINSON, Private Secretary.

JUNE 26.

LEE'S ARMY AND ITS STRENGTH.

From the Washington Republican Extra, June 25.

A gentleman arrived here this morning, who left Hagerstown at 6 o'clock on Wednesday morning. He saw EWELL'S forces, composing the left wing of LEE'S army, pass through that place. The head of the column entered Hagerstown on Tuesday morning and moved directly through to Pennsylvania. The rear of the column understood to belong to EWELL did not pass through the place until that night. This force was estimated to be from 30,000 to 35,000 strong.

The troops did very little damage beside seizing all the horses they could find. Our informant says that when he left Hagerstown yesterday morning, it was understood that LONGSTREET, in command of the right wing of LEE'S army, was then crossing the Potomac below Williamsport. The main body of A. P. HILL'S forces, comprising the centre of LEE'S army, was understood to be between Winchester and Martinsburgh, moving toward the river.

To-day we have no doubt, from all the information we have gathered, that the whole of EWELL'S column is in Pennsylvania, not far from Chambersburgh. The gentleman who saw EWELL'S troops, says they had with them a very large number of wagons, and from this fact it is supposed that they intend to gather all the supplies they can find.

MOVEMENTS OF THE REBELS.

From the Baltimore American, June 26.

GEN. LEE IN MARYLAND.

We learn that information reached in this City last evening that GEN. LEE and staff crossed the Potomac into Maryland in the vicinity of Shepherdstown on Wednesday evening, and that the main body of his army was crossing at the different fords between Shepherdstown and Williamsport. There had not, however, at latest accounts, been any rebel movement toward Frederick, the main body being still beyond the South Mountain, and stretching off toward Pennsylvania.

We do not regard this movement on Pennsylvania as anything more than a grand foraging expedition and a feint to attract troops from Gen. HOOKER'S army, as well as to prevent the new regiments from joining him. If they find no opposition, they may go as far as Harrisburgh, and even attack that city; but we rather think that Gen. LEE will soon find occasion for all his troops in the vicinity of the Manassas battle-ground. He will certainly never push forward into Pennsylvania and allow Gen. HOOKER to get between him and the Potomac, which would undoubtedly be the case, probably within the next twenty-four hours, after his army entered the Cumberland Valley in force.

MOVEMENTS OF GEN. HOOKER.

We are only permitted to state that the army of Gen. HOOKER is again in motion.

GEN. FRENCH AT HARPER'S FERRY.

The gratifying news was received last evening that Gen. FRENCH has been appointed to the command of the troops on Maryland Heights. This is the first evidence of real energetic vitality that has yet been exhibited by the War Department on this side of the Potomac, and will be hailed by the people everywhere with gratification. With Gen. FRENCH in command, the troops there may be regarded at once as a heavy reinforcement to the Army of the Potomac for active service.

FROM NEW-ORLEANS.

ARRIVAL OF THE CREOLE.

NO LATER NEWS FROM PORT HUDSON.

Another Vessel from New-York Destroyed by the Tugboat Boston.

The steamer Creole, from New-Orleans on the 19th instant, arrived here yesterday afternoon.

The newspapers to hand contain no news from Port Hudson.

The Bank of Louisiana and Louisiana State Bank had been required to go into liquidation, under three Commissioners each. Their condition is said to be satisfactory.

The receipts of sugar from the interior were partially suspended, owing to the heavy duties imposed.

A large mass meeting of Union citizens was held at New-Orleans on the evening of the 16th instant.

The anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill was celebrated by the Bunker Hill Company of the Forty-seventh Massachusetts regiment, at Camp Parapet, Louisiana.

The steamers George Cromwell, Key West, Patapsco and Suffolk, had arrived from New-York.

OUR NEW-ORLEANS CORRESPONDENCE.

Guerrillas Annoying Gen. Banks—Four Steamers Burned—The Chief Banks in Trouble—An Unsuccessful Assault on Port Hudson—The Wounded Arriving at New-Orleans.

NEW-ORLEANS, Friday, June 19, 1863—6 P. M.

The Malaness was to go direct, and leave at 6 o'clock last evening. At 5 o'clock the Quartermaster sent an order for her detention, to take on board fifty prisoners, and to land them at Key West. This morning the Creole is detained, awaiting the arrival of the Iberville, from Baton Rouge, with army mail—if she gets in at all. As I intimated in my former letter, the Confederate guerrillas have got in the rear of BANKS, and at Donaldsville and on the Bayou Lafourche, and have burnt four steamers—viz., the Lafourche, Sager, Anglo-American—all bound here with sugar, &c., and used for transports occasionally. There is also a report that of two Government transport steamers, bound from Brashes City to New-Orleans, one has been burnt and the other is ashore, whether by accident or design it is not stated. The two steamers expected here were the Laurel Hill and a ferry-boat used by Gen. BANKS to transport troops.

Everything in relation to Port Hudson is suppressed. The bank-note currency question, it is said, will be satisfactorily arranged in a few days.

Provost-Marshal Gen. BOWEN has closed the Louisiana State Bank, appointing as liquidators J. M. LAPEYRE, President of the Bank, A. MITTENBERGER and Col. DUBUIS. The banks, by the laws of the State, are under the control of the Governor and the Board of Currency, and as Gov. SHERLEY is military Governor, and fulfilling all the duties of civil Governor, it was his province to close the banks for any infringement of their charters. The bank directors say they are able, and have ample available assets to pay their issues.

JUNE 19—5 P. M.

The steamer Sallie Robinson left here last evening with ordnance, naval stores, &c., for Baton Rouge, and has returned to the city, and as the steamer Cornie is just from Port Hudson, having a bearer of dispatches and the army and navy mail, the Creole will be dispatched. She confirms the burning of the boats in Bayou Plaquemine, and the return of the Any One, lying under protection near Donaldson. Capt. TALBOT and his guerrillas are doing much mischief. A party came within a few miles of Baton Rouge, when a skirmish occurred. Twenty-five of our troops were killed, and a few were taken prisoners. Five hundred negroes have been driven off at Lafourche by the guerrillas, and some stores taken by them. The Cornie supplied some of the gunboats. When the fort at Port Hudson opened on her, one of our gunboats replied, and silenced the battery. Part of our troops are stationed in the hills at Port Hickey, and the guerrillas near them. I should not be surprised if Plaquemine was destroyed on the return of supplies from here. The Sallie Robinson intends trying to get up again to-night with her stores and some officers. Warm work may be expected there in a few days. It is a matter of surprise where the guerrillas come from. They swarm, and it may be to attract attention from Port Hudson, which is awaiting reinforcements. The forces of the enemy in Port Hudson have been underrated.

NEW-ORLEANS, Saturday, June 20, 1863.

This week, so far, has been a week of rumors. Papers from Mobile, from the 4th to the 12th of June, which contained in them contraband intelligence of movements in the Mississippi and the West, have been received. That there have been close contested battles and skirmishes in the vicinity of Vicksburgh and Port Hudson no one doubts; yet both sides claim advantages. We fight under great disadvantages—leading men against the heights of Port Hudson, where masked batteries, rifle-pits and concealed foes meet them, and contest every step. The policy alluded to in my former letters, of a siege to starve them out, has been abandoned for sharp, quick and decisive blows, regardless of slaughter, as delay would give the Confederates time to concentrate reinforcements in the rear of BANKS, cut him off from railroad communication with New-Orleans and his supplies, or drive him to the river transportation. Consequently a renewed attack was made on Sunday, in which we were repulsed. The loss you will doubtless learn through Government reports at Washington. For the last two days the Iberville, Time and Tide, Crescent and other steamers have arrived here with the sick and wounded, who are being received at the St. Louis Hotel, (hospital,) and every comfort and convenience is provided for them.

Lieut.-Commander JOHN E. HAYS, of the United States gunboat Albatross, now stationed off Bayou Sara, committed suicide on the afternoon of the 11th inst., by shooting himself through the head with a revolver, in his state-room, while suffering from delirium, the consequence of an intermittent fever, under which he had been laboring some time. He entered the United States Navy in 1841, and stood 23 in the list of Lieutenant-Commanders. He was a brave, gallant and accomplished officer, and much liked in social circles. He has been in several engagements, the Albatross being his first command. He was a native of New-York, and leaves a wife and family.

The mortuary report for the week ending June 14 shows an increase of 46 over last week's report. Total deaths 196—of which 38 are from diarrhœa and dysentery, and 28 from fevers (no yellow); of the 196, 81 were Africans and their descendants.

Much anxiety is felt here to know the next victims of the steam-ring Boston, which is now out on the Gulf, unless she has been overhauled ere this by the navy. The Portsmouth, lying at the head of the Passes, should have been provided with two small tenders—fast steamers—that could watch the mouth of the Passes and communicate with her. Capt. JAMES DUNN, now, it is said, in command of the Boston, is well known here as a very smart fellow. He was in Government employ during the Mexican war, and commanded the United States Government transport Grey Cloud, running from Pensacola to New-Orleans. He brought BILLY BOWLEGS and other Indian Chiefs from Florida to New-Orleans. He is a fine pilot, and knows the coast and Gulf well. He also commanded one of the tow-boats on the Mississippi. He was, within a few months, captured in running the blockade from Mobile to Havana in a small vessel with a cargo of cotton. He was sent to Key West, his vessel and cargo condemned, and he ordered to report as a prisoner to Admiral FARRAGUT here, and he may turn up retaliating on unarmed and unprotected vessels coming to New-Orleans. He has a family here or in Dixie. What he can do with a small tug, with only small arms—navy revolvers—remains to be seen.

Much surprise and some excitement was created this morning by an order from Gen. BANKS, through Gov. SHERLEY, Provost-Marshal General, (although no notice is given in print,) to three of our local Banks to go into liquidation, viz.: The Bank of Louisiana, Louisiana State Bank and Bank of New-Orleans. These banks have virtually been in liquidation for many months, doing no new business, but renewing the mortgage notes and others, and collecting, in some instances, the interest only. Many citizens, loyal of course, for the registered enemies have left and are leaving, have held these notes. Knowing that the bill holders are the first to be paid by their charters and by law, and that the Banks had for their assets mortgaged notes, they preferred them to the city issues, which are predicated upon the taxes only, and these Bank issues hold mortgages upon the improved property thereof in the city. Now the holders of the banknotes are at the mercy of the brokers, who charge 25 per cent. discount, while greenbacks are at 5 to 6 per cent. premium and city issues at par, the other banks having scarcely any notes out here.

The great Union mass meeting, at Clay-square, was largely attended last evening.

Col. CHARLES DUBUIS has recovered, and is presiding at the Provost Court, Department of the Gulf. GILBERT.

PORT HUDSON.

The following paragraph, which appears in the Era of June 17, is the only reference in any of the papers to the struggle at Port Hudson:

"The public mind at present is in a state of suspense not exceeded at the time when Capts. FARRAGUT and FOXES were thundering at the gates of Forts Jackson and St. Philip. The great stake for the possession of the Mississippi River is being contended for by two of the most gallant and determined Generals in the Union army. Such accounts as have been received from Vicksburgh, have all been to the effect that Gen. GRANT and his indomitable army have every prospect of finally succeeding in their efforts to capture this stronghold.

Affairs at Port Hudson are, we are assured by persons every way well qualified to judge, in a most encouraging condition. But the impatient mind is prone to outstrip the slow process of a siege, and fly to the future, vainly endeavoring to fathom its dark recesses."

DEPREDATIONS IN THE GULF.

From the Era, June 17.

The towboat Leviathan arrived yesterday from the mouth of the river, having in tow the ship Jenny Lind, with Capt. TIRRENS on board.

We learn from Capt. TIRRENS that the tugboat Boston put her tow to sea on the 9th inst., and then took in tow the ship Jenny Lind, inside Pass-a-l'Outre bar, bound up.

When about 10 o'clock, the same night, a lugger came along side of the Boston, and cut her loose from the ship, and immediately put to sea, Capt. TIRRENS being at the time on board the Jenny Lind.

On the 10th inst. the tugboat Leviathan, Capt. WHITMORE, was dispatched in pursuit of the Boston, and after cruising around in the neighborhood of the fleet off Mobile, she returned without seeing anything of the Boston. We also learn that during the night of the 9th, the Boston fell in with the bark Lenox, Capt. COLE, from New-York for this port, off Pass-a-l'Outre, and made prisoners of Capt. COLE and crew, and set the ship on fire. The Boston then commenced cruising, when, during the same night, she fell in with the bark Tacony, Capt. WELLS, about thirty-five miles off Pass-a-l'Outre, and after taking the Captain and crew prisoners, set the ship on fire about 6 o'clock in the morning. We learn that both vessels were from New-York, with assorted cargoes for this port. The Boston then stood for the Chandeleurs.

The Picayune has the following interesting particulars:

"One of the Pass pilots, Mr. E. C. BANNAN, called to see us yesterday, and from him we have information which fully confirms the report of Capt. TIRRENS.

Pilot BANNAN had been on board the bark Tacony five days, when she was overhauled by the Boston. The Tacony was 35 miles distant from Pass-a-l'Outre, and BANNAN, as pilot, was bringing her in, when the tug Boston ran alongside, as the Captain of the Tacony supposed, to tender her services as a tow. The Boston was flying the United States flag, but when she was close to the bark she pulled it down and ran up Confederate colors. She then hailed the Tacony to heave to, which she did.

Capt. JAMES DUNN, with a dozen men, the entire crew of the Boston, boarded and took possession of the bark. Capt. WELLS and his two mates were taken on board the Boston, and the crew were offered the choice of going to Mobile on the tug, or going to shore in the long boat. Pilot BANNAN, the cook, and two of the crew, left the bark in the long boat. The rest of the crew went as prisoner on the Boston.

The pilot says they were well treated, and were allowed to take all their personal property out of the Tacony. He saw Capt. COLE and the first and second mate of the Lenox (burned the day before) on board the Boston. When the crew were out of the Tacony she was set on fire. Capt. DUNN took no property from the bark. All this happened early last Wednesday, and the Tacony was set on fire about six o'clock in the morning. As soon as the Tacony was well on fire the Boston sailed away for the Chandeleurs. Mr. BANNAN says that Capt. DUNN and crew came over from Mobile in a lugger, and hung around the passes eight or ten days to catch the Boston. These men were armed with navy-size revolvers."

NEWS FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

FORTRESS MONROE, Thursday, June 25.

The Yorktown Cavalier, of the 23d inst., reports the following deaths in the Nelson General Hospital there:

June 17—Lewis Furman, 127th N. Y. Volunteers.
June 18—W. C. Bentley, 143d N. Y. Volunteers.
June 19—John A. Purvis, 143d N. Y. Volunteers.
June 21—Edward A. Lewis, 143d N. Y. Volunteers.

The schooner Jamestown arrived here yesterday afternoon with the officers and crew of the United States gunboat Sumter, which was sunk four miles from Cape Henry Light, having been run into by the steamer General Meigs on the night of the 23d. No lives were lost by this accident. The Sumter's smokestacks are out of water.

Four rebel deserters arrived at Fortress Monroe this morning from Yorktown from WISE's army.

All the patients who were in the hospitals at Suffolk have been removed to the Hampton and Chesapeake hospitals, as this is a much healthier locality.

The steamship S. R. Spaulding, Capt. HOWE, arrived here this afternoon from Newbern, N. C. The Captain reports no news in that Department.

A rain-storm commenced here at an early hour this morning, and continued up to 5 o'clock this afternoon. Rain was much needed here.

A Prize.

The British prize schooner Glen, of Yarmouth N. S., Acting Ensign MAXE, has just arrived. She was captured June 20, in lat. 26° 41', lon. 73° 47'. Her former Captain (SEAVIN) reports that she was from Matamoras for Nassau, N. P., and having got to the northward of his port of destination, and being short of provisions—had been at sea 40 days—was proceeding to Halifax, N. S. When captured, she was 600 miles north of Nassau. She is supposed to be a blockade runner.

REBEL RAMS PREPARING FOR A RAID.

The Nine Months' Volunteers for the Defense of Pennsylvania.

NEWBERN, N. C., Monday, June 22.

The United States transport steamer Albany, Capt. LAWS, leaves here at 5 P. M., for New-York.

Two deserters arrived here from Wilmington a few days since, with the intelligence that two rebel ironclads, with five inches plating on eighteen inches of wood, mounting heavy guns, were about ready to make a raid on our blockading squadron. They are about the size of the first Merrimac, and lay very deep in the water, and are only able to make some three or four knots an hour.

Wilmington is very strongly fortified, and a small force can hold it against great odds. The officers of the regiments there are in favor of "a bitter prosecution of the war," while the men, who desire the capture of the city by the "Yankees," entertain somewhat moderate regards for the rebel Confederacy. Ex-Senator CLIMMONS is the General commanding the rebel forces.

In the vicinity of Wilmington, near the border of South Carolina, large numbers of deserters and conscripts are intrenched and successfully resisting rebel authority, having had three severe engagements already.

The rebel Secretary of War has ordered all the North Carolina regiments into other States, for immediate service, on account of the growing disaffection among them. Georgia and South Carolina troops are to take their places in this State.

The women and children, numbering some 1,500 persons, on Cape Hatteras Banks, are in a very destitute condition, and threatened with starvation. Every man and boy among them capable of doing military duty, has voluntarily taken up arms in defence of the Union, which leaves no one at home to care for the innocent and needy. It is earnestly hoped that some benevolent Christian Association of the North will immediately dispatch hither a representative with clothing and other necessaries to relieve the pressing wants of these devoted Union-loving people.

The wives and children of the First North Carolina Volunteers and the First North Carolina artillery, are also suffering for the want of proper clothing, and require immediate assistance, having been driven from their homes in a destitute condition.

The fortifications in this Department are being improved and strengthened to such an extent, with but little expense to the Government, as will make them completely impregnable.

On receiving the news of the rebel invasion of Pennsylvania, Gen. FOSTER immediately dispatched Gen. FERRIS, Chief of Staff, to Fortress Monroe and Washington to tender the services to Gen. DIX and the authorities at Washington of all the nine months' men in this Department, who were held ready to move at a moment's notice.

NEWBERN, N. C., Tuesday, June 23.

As soon as the intelligence reached Gen. FOSTER of LEE'S advance, he, on his own responsibility, commenced making arrangements for embarking all his available forces for Fortress Monroe, to be used by Gen. DIX in taking Richmond, or to assist in repelling the rebel invasion, as DIX might think proper. Our waters, since the reception of the news, have been black with moving masses of troops who have never been defeated.

From Panama.

PANAMA, Wednesday, June 17.

An attempt has been made in Quito to upset the Urbina Administration in Ecuador. Several of the ringleaders were arrested and banished, and the revolution thus quieted.

There is nothing of importance from the coast.

On the Isthmus everything remains quiet, the only excitement being the arrival of 100 soldiers from Buenaventura in charge of about 25 officers. There were 500 in all, but the balance deserted prior to embarkation. It is probable the President has sent them here previous to making a visit himself. Should he come here this will be the Capital during his visit, as he carries it with him wherever he goes throughout the Republic.

The new Constitution was promulgated in this City on Sunday last amidst great beating of drums and sounding of trumpets. It is a very liberal document—in fact too much so for the people it is intended for. Perfect freedom, both in speech and writing, is allowed, and will doubtless be fully availed of, and will lead to endless quarrels.

The Champion arrived on the morning of the 14th inst., nearly 11 days from New-York. She had fine weather, but was very deeply laden.

Aspinwall City is being rapidly rebuilt in a very neat, though by no means substantial fashion.

The weather is very variable, and frequent heavy rains prevail.

The Isthmus is exceedingly healthy.

The Pirate off Cape Horn.

From the Panama Herald, June 16.

We publish below the affidavit of Capt. LEACH, of the ship George Green, made before the United States Consul at Callao, regarding the vessel in sight on fire off Cape Horn and the steamer supposed to be a pirate. It would be interesting to ascertain from the log of the British steamer Fast Yuma, which was off Cape Horn about the same time, and is now on her way to San Francisco and Vancouver's Islands, whether she was not the vessel taken for the piratical steamer:

CITY OF CALLAO, May 16, 1863.

Report of Capt. Leach, of the ship George Green, of New-York, before me, Consul of the United States.

APRIL 14, 1863—Fresh breezes and hazy. At 2 P. M., Cape Horn bore N. W. 15 miles. The haze clearing up, saw two vessels astern, one of them a steamer. In a few minutes after saw the vessel that was in company with the steamer on fire, and the steamer heading for the George Green, under steam and sail, coming up very fast. At 3 P. M., he being about four miles astern and in our wake, the steamer ceased chase, and saw a large double-topsail yard ship (no doubt American) off our lee quarter on the same tack as ourselves. For a few minutes after the steamer kept off for him and gaining on him very fast, with steam and sail. At dark he was about three miles from the ship; as soon as I lost sight of him at dark, I tacked ship to the north, and saw no more of him. She was a very long vessel, bark rigged, had no top-gallantmasts aloft, but had topmast crossheads and cups for fitting topgallantmasts; she had her fores and main mainsails, foresail, jibs, fore-topmast staysail and spanker on, and no ensign on her mizzenmast. She was painted with a white streak with a tier of ports fore and aft; her smoke-stack was painted white, and she appeared to be very fast.

Master of ship George Green.

THE PRINCE CONSORT'S MEMORIAL.

THE INAUGURATION CEREMONIES.

The London Times, of June 11, gives a detailed report of the inauguration of the Prince Consort's Memorial on the preceding day. The visit and appearance of the young Prince and Princess of Wales, it says, gave the occasion its chief interest. The Exhibition Building and the gardens were considered as one during the day, and never did the fine interior and vast proportions of the old building show to better advantage than yesterday, when thronged with masses of richly dressed visitors, promenading the nave as of yore, or giving animation to its huge expanse of long-deserted galleries. The nave, with its really noble roof, looks, now that Mr. Crace's colors have toned down a little, almost better than it did last year, and the whole impression produced by the interior was clear, light and lively. This pleasant effect was not, however, due to any effort which had been made to give it a festive aspect, for, as far as proper at one west, everything was of the plainest, if not, indeed, of the roughest kind. The line of the procession was marked out by barriers of plain deal, unstained and unpainted. At the west down a few chairs were placed upon a carpet which had seen its best days many years ago, while the yellow satin chairs reserved for the Royal party were, with the single exception of the two for the Prince and Princess, not quite well worn, but so soiled as to attract general and unfavorable notice on this account. The drapery of the beautiful throne, so often used last year with such effect, was merely hung at the back, over the gallery, like a carpet, where it was totally out of place. Little shortcomings like these often attract more notice from the public than they are worth, but the carpet and chairs on this occasion did really deserve all the unfriendly criticism they drew forth, and it would have been much better to have done without them than to have used these well-worn "properties" at all.

All the space around these conspicuous seats was railed off under the western dome for the officials who took part in the procession, and all the building beyond this was given up without reserve to the public, who were admitted at 1 o'clock, and who the instant the doors were opened began to pour in. The great centre of attraction in the building was, of course, the western dome, where the seats round the inclosure we have mentioned were filled, even at 2 o'clock, with a brilliant assembly, which soon overflowed its limited boundaries on the floor, and began to fringe the galleries with bonnets of brilliant colors.

As 4 o'clock drew on, a constant stream of visitors flowed in. The members of the various Corps Diplomatiques, in rich diversity of costume, and the leading men of our "governing classes," the elements of past, present and future Cabinets, next entered in rapid succession. The Duke of Argyll was, of the Ministers, the earliest on the scene; Lord Granville, Lord de Grey, the Duke of Newcastle, Sir George Grey, Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Cardwell and others quickly followed. Lord Palmerston did not arrive until much later, and was instantly recognized and loudly cheered. Her Majesty's Opposition was represented by Mr. Disraeli, Sir J. Pakington, Sir S. Northcote, &c.

The Duke of Buccleuch, the President of the Royal Horticultural Society, in a rich green uniform as Captain-General of the Royal Archers of Scotland, assisted by Lord Doon and Sir Westwood Duke, was busily engaged in receiving the more distinguished guests. Mr. Kinn and Messrs. Cannan and Thomas Lewis, the contractors of the International Building, were also present. Shortly before 5 o'clock, the Duchess of Cambridge, the Duke of Cambridge, and the Princess Mary made their appearance. All the visitors had by this time assembled, and while waiting for the Royal party it was amusing to observe in how affectionate a manner the rivals of public life fraternized with each other within the neutral ground of the inclosure—how Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Disraeli had a friendly gossip; how Sir George Grey had his joke with the Bishop of Canterbury; and how, more wonderful still, the jealous champions of the thistle and the shamrock, the Lord Provost of Edinburgh and the Lord Mayor of Dublin, who have of late been fighting so desperately for precedence, continued like fond brethren. It was observed, however, that the marshals of the procession warily avoided the international dispute by placing the two municipal representatives abreast.

Precisely at 4 o'clock, with characteristic punctuality, the Royal carriages drove up to the western entrance. The rattle of arms was heard as the guard of honor of the Grenadiers saluted, the band struck up the National Anthem, and a loud cheer greeted the entrance of the august party. The Prince of Wales was in the uniform of a General officer. The Princess, radiant and smiling as usual, was dressed in a pale mauve silk, with a rich lace mantle. The Princesses Helena and Louise were similarly attired. Prince Alfred presented a manly figure in the usual elegant of all uniforms—that of the Navy—and the two younger Princes, Arthur and Leopold, wore kilts of Royal Stuart tartan. The executive branch of the Memorial Committee, and a deputation of the members of the Royal Society having been presented by the Duke of Buccleuch to the Prince of Wales, the procession was immediately formed.

With trumpets sounding, the procession passed half way down the nave, and then, turning to the left and ascending the gallery stairs, filed into a large temporary balcony, gaily decorated with garlands of flowers and scarlet hangings, which overlooked the Horticultural Gardens. The Royal party took their seats in the central part of the balcony, which projected beyond the rest of the structure. The appearance of the Prince and Princess of Wales was the signal for renewed cheering from the mass of spectators gathered in the open air.

The Duke of Buccleuch, at the head of the Council of the Horticultural Society, then approached the Prince of Wales and presented an address, which, like reports at railway meetings, was "taken as read." It contained congratulations to his Royal Highness on his marriage, an expression of profound relief at the loss which the Society had sustained in the death of the Prince Consort, and assurances of gratitude for the interest which Her Majesty and the other members of the Royal family had manifested in the institution.

The address concluded with a statement of the satisfactory progress of the Society, which now numbers 3,400 Fellows, and some praise of the "beauty of the gardens," and the "success of the promenades and shows," which would perhaps, have come with better grace from other lips.

The Prince of Wales briefly thanked the Council for their address, and stated that a reply would be forwarded to them.

The united bands of the Guards then performed Lindemann's stirring "Procession March," after which Mr. Gomers, Honorary Secretary to the Executive Department of the Memorial Committee, stepped forward and read an address to which the Prince of Wales returned the following answer:

Gentlemen: I have listened with an interest, which I am sure will be shared by all present, to the details which you have given in connection with the memorial to my lamented and revered father which we are assembled this day to inaugurate. As a son, I cannot but be deeply affected by that part of your address in which you have referred to the beloved parent whose aid and counsel were never wanting when work was to be done, or when difficulties were to be overcome. [Cheers.] I am confident that our proceedings in commemorating so proud a year in England's annals would have met with his approval, and I am sustained in the part which, in obedience to the Queen's commands, I have undertaken, by the conviction and grateful sense that the sympathy of the entire nation accompanies me. I have now the pleasure of directing that the Memorial—of which the artist may well be proud—be now uncovered. [Cheers.]

The last words with which His Royal Highness concluded were scarcely audible beyond the splendid circle which were assembled round him in the balcony, but, as if intuitively, the whole assemblage turned toward the covered monument, from which neatly and quickly, as the boom of the first gun sounded, the covering was instantaneously withdrawn, showing a Memorial, of which, as the Prince truly said, the artist might well be proud. It is entirely constructed of red and gray granite, as far as relates to the artist's design. The under base of Portland stone does not belong to the Memorial proper, and would have been better if in unison with the granite work; and the arches, keyed with uncommon poise, effectually detract from the composition. It is, we believe, the first possible occasion in which both red and gray granite, accompanied with bronze work, has been combined, at least in this country, and is in other respects new in its architectural features. The bronze statues have been produced by means of electro-deposition, which in this instance has proved a most successful application in rendering the correct outlines of the originals, in preserving the exact size of the original models, which could not be the case where the old method of casting is used.

The lower bronze statues of Prudence and Temperance are 7 feet 6 inches in height, and are placed on pedestals which are 12 feet high. The entire height of the Memorial, exclusive of the outer work with arches, is 45 feet; the width across the angles of the gradine, 18 feet. The entablature is broken to correspond with the projection of the base. The four seated bronze statues represent the quarters of the world in an allegorical manner, but elevated of the old conventional type.

Beneath and in front of each statue there is a bronze medallion inserted in the granite base, the four medallions being enlarged copies from the prize medals awarded to successful exhibitors of 1851. Behind each of these statues arise two pilasters and two pillars of the Corinthian order, from plinth bases placed three feet behind the statues. The capitals and bases of the columns are of bronze, the shafts of polished red granite, the effect of which is very good as an architectural decoration. Polished red granite is also introduced with equal effect in the prominent side panels of the base, and upon the circular side panels of the body of the pedestal. Upon the four latter panels there are inscribed in gilded inclosed lettering the principal features and facts relating to the first International Exhibition, including a record of all those who were actually engaged in any responsible position connected with the management of that national event, commencing with the Royal President of the Commission, the late Prince, whose statute in bronze surmounts the Memorial. It is 10 feet high, and in the mantle and with the insignia of the Master of the Order of the Bath—the Queen, as Sovereign, being head of every other Illustrious Order.

The statue of the Queen, as personifying "Peace," was intended originally to have been the crowning figure, but has been exchanged for that of the Prince by express desire of Her Majesty.

The frieze of the temple bears upon it, in gilded lettering, two inscriptions—one from Isaiah, "Let all the nations be gathered together, and let the people be assembled;" the other is from the Psalms, "I will remember the works of the Lord; surely I will remember Thy wonders of old." On the north tablet is the dedication of the Memorial itself, as follows:

Erected
By public subscription,
Originally intended only to commemorate
The International Exhibition
Of 1851,
Now
Dedicated also to the Memory of
The great Author of that Undertaking,
The Good Prince,
To whose far-seeing and comprehensive Philanthropy
Its first conception was due;
And to whose clear Judgment and untiring Exertion
In directing its Execution
The World is indebted for
Its unprecedented Success.
Albert Francis Charles Augustus Emanuel,
The Prince Consort,
Born August 26, 1819. Died December 14, 1861.

"He was a man; take him for all in all,
We shall not look upon his like again."

The programme of the day's proceedings contained an official description of the Memorial—a description so ridiculous, in its high-flown and exaggerated style, as to make it a matter of surprise to every one who read it how such a document could have been allowed to appear at all. Within a few minutes after the statue had been uncovered the Royal party prepared to quit their balcony and cross the garden to where a better view of the statue could be gained. Slowly the long procession filed into the garden, each of its easy celebrities attracting more or less of notice and applause. Lord Palmerston receiving more than any, till at last the Prince and Princess, followed by the members of the royal family, came forth, and were welcomed loudly by cheering than by the most deep and profound reverence. It took some time for the Prince and Princess to acknowledge these as they proceeded, bowing with kindly grace and courtesy, from side to side, and stopping now and then to gain a fresh view of the Memorial. The latter scarcely showed to better advantage as they drew nearer, and the water flowing from its base could be seen in front in a wide, ample and handsome cascade; at the sides with a feeble and ineffectual dribble. In an artistic point of view, the weakest parts of the Memorial are these side opentures. If these apertures in the side and back of the base were closed up and filled with masks of forms it would impart an appearance of solidity to the base which the superstructure, from its great size and height, now sadly needs.

On the edge of the reservoir, in front of the cascade, the Royal party remained some time, and from this place the statue of the late Prince could be distinctly seen in all its most minute detail. The likeness is excellent, not only in feature but in the very attitude and pose of the figure, and it never could be seen to better advantage than when the Royal party looked on it, with the light shining on it fully, yet not with a glaring effect, and with the soft green foliage of the trees as a background to the whole work. After passing the statue the procession wound round to the east side of the gardens, the Royal party everywhere receiving the same tokens of affectionate respect, till the door of exit into Exhibition road was reached, where, amid the most enthusiastic cheering, they quitted the gardens.

The departure of the Royal party dispirited the scene of its chief attraction. At the same time the sky became once more overcast, and a heavy shower seemed to be impending. This led to a hasty dispersion of the great body of the visitors. There was instantly an eager demand for cabs and carriages, and before long the gardens were left to a few lingering promenaders.

THE QUEEN.

From the London Times, June 11.

The Queen came to town with two of the Princesses and the principal members of the royal household. She was met at the station by Prince Alfred, and proceeded to the Horticultural Gardens. She was there received by all the officers and Council of the Society, who, we are told, had the honor of being presented to Her Majesty. Proceeding up the centre walk of the Gardens, the Queen advanced to the singularly picturesque combination now crowned by the Memorial of the Great Exhibition. This fair pedestal, at the foot of which are seated representations of the four quarters of the world, was to have been surmounted by a statue of Her Majesty herself. It was one of the first consolations of her loss to command that a statue of the Prince Consort should be substituted, and the Memorial thus made a monument of the Prince, who was the real author of the Great Exhibition, of the International Exhibition which he did not live to see, and of all that meets the eye around the Memorial. It may be imagined with what deep interest the Queen surveyed the monument. As the British people are far more fastidious than successful in monumental sculpture and architecture, and can hardly be said to have faith in any living artist, it will be a comfort to those who can be pleased to know that the Queen is much gratified with the result. Her Majesty then drove to Marlborough-house to visit its youthful occupants, and after receiving there a visit from the Prince of Orange, returned to Windsor.

What strange vicissitudes are there to be read in this brief narrative! Queen Victoria saw the Exhibition Building emerging from mud and scaffold poles; at her next visit she finds it an empty shell, waiting the vote of the Commons, or the hammer of the auctioneer. When she last saw Marlborough-House its heavy interior showed no signs or even promise of habitation. Its gloomy hall and cold suites of rooms were a picture gallery, and it was a question whether the Prince of Wales would ever elect to reside there. They who remembered the history of a Royal residence at the other end of the street might well feel some misgiving as to the destinies of this edifice. On Monday the Queen found it an English home, combining with princely elegance our prized domestic comforts, and associated with bright careers and long expectations. When Her Majesty last saw the house it was the monument of the imperious Duchess; she finds it past forgotten in the brightness of its future. Such are the changes which even a few months may bring over the scene. The change is as when nature repairs its own destruction by clothing the ruin with verdure and bidding the broken stem to send forth new branches. But it might have been the other way. There might have been a fulfilment of the old saying that misfortunes never come single. Incidents, small by comparison, might have been sufficient to protract to a painful and inconvenient length the retirement of Her Majesty and her indulgence in private sorrow. The habit of seclusion is one that grows upon the mind faster than we are aware of. It is favored by the external changes, for when people would return to the world it is not the world they left, and the world they left will not return to them. They have to do something more than take up a thread and resume a story. After a very short period there are arrears to be mastered at every attempt to renew acquaintance, to revive an interest, to continue a part, and sustain a character. Hence it is that they who have retired, as they thought, for awhile, often end at the end of the period that time has only added to the reasons for retirement, and what was choice at first has now become a necessity. It is not possible to play fast and loose with society, with public duties, or the course of human affairs.

Some such reflections have occurred to many minds when they observed Royalty reconciling itself to seclusion, and the nation to the absence of Royalty. The nation, however, does this but ill, and very soon remonstrates. The politicians who maintain that the Crown is a mere pageant in this country, are belied by the fact that England always insists on its Sovereign living before its eyes and mixing with its affairs. No pageant would be so indispensable. The Court is no ceremony, as England would shortly find if ever in an evil hour it should attempt to do without it.

In justice to ourselves, we must conclude that there is something very substantial and important in the dynasty we have preserved so carefully a thousand years, in the forms we have made so essential to the Constitution, and in the feelings and ideas which have sunk so deeply into our hearts and minds. But while we depend so much as we actually do on the living presence of royalty, we have a right to ask that it shall do its part to the utmost of its strength and opportunities. In the course of thirty generations royalty has suffered many collapses, many rivalries, many disorders, many divisions, and they have all been most disastrous to the country. We expect it to be a strong, pure, simple, and undoubted tradition, coming down, like the electric wire, from age to another, and establishing a unity of sentiment, by means of one communication, between the Throne and the people of many centuries. It is the first step in reconciling to feel and outlive the golden centuries, and the King that can do this in our hearts [illegible] to be [illegible] a moment which continues to [illegible] the stability of our institutions and the security of life and property, but the sentiment itself must proceed from the Sovereign and be the reflection of a living personage and a visible character. The character and life of Queen Victoria is faithfully mirrored in every intelligent mind in this country, and is everywhere the picture of simple duty, domestic affection, and sound common sense, as opposed to the eccentricities, extravagancies, and follies which have sullied other phases of royalty. It is this old sentiment within us, and this testimony of our own spontaneous affection, that makes every Londoner rejoice to hear of Queen Victoria once more in our streets, and gardens and palaces. They all wish to feel that the Queen has come home from a long and painful journey, and come to herself again after a long estrangement. She has been sadly missed, and will be gladly welcomed.

THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT AND THE POLISH QUESTION.

A summary of Mr. Seward's dispatch, in reply to M. Drouyn de Lhuys' invitation to the American Government to associate itself with the three Powers on the question of Poland, is published. After the usual acknowledgment of the different documents, Mr. Seward continues:

"The American Government is deeply sensible of the consideration used toward it by the Emperor of the French, in thus waiting so long in the settlement of a question which has a double importance when regarded from the points of view of order and humanity."

And then, having accepted his persuasion that Russia must listen to such an appeal, writes:

"Yet, notwithstanding the favor with which we are disposed to receive the suggestions of the Emperor of the French, the American Government feels that there is an insurmountable difficulty in joining the three Cabinets in any active coöperation. Having founded our institutions on the rights of man, the creation of our Republic have always been regarded as a political reformer, and it is evident that the revolutionists of every country count, if not on the active support, at least on the effective sympathy and protection of the United States. Our noble Constitution was scarcely established before it became necessary for us to consider how far it would be compatible with our security and welfare to interfere in the politics of foreign States. A pressing appeal was made to us in behalf of France. This appeal was sanctioned and strengthened by the then existing treaty of mutual alliance and defence, without which, it is not rashness to say, the honor of France, our own sovereignty and independence would and have been so speedily matured. This appeal so deeply moved the heart of the American people, that it required all the respect which they paid to the father of their country, then at the summit of his glory, to convince them that, considering the state of our Republic, the character of its institutions, and above all the peculiarity of its Constitution, it was best for the American people to favor the cause of progress throughout the world by the example of our good government, and by avoiding all foreign interference, alliance or intervention. It is true that Washington considered that a time would come when, our institutions being firmly established and working regularly, we might, with every security, assist at the deliberations of foreign Powers for the general advantage of nations."

After recalling the several occasions when America has been forced to refuse to join similar alliances, Mr. Seward concludes:

"Our policy of non-intervention, however rigorous and absolute it may appear to others, has become for us a policy of tradition, which could only be abandoned on an urgent occasion of evident necessity. It would be still less wise to depart from it, now that a local rising—transitory, as we hope—deprives the American Government of the assistance and opinions of a section of the people, to whom so serious an alteration of policy could not be indifferent. The President is persuaded that the Emperor will see in this adherence to a traditional policy the observation of which has contributed much to our security and, we hope, to the interests of humanity—at once an expression of deference for him and for the French people."

THE SLAVE-TRADE.

In the British House of Commons on the 12th inst.

Mr. Cowperan asked the First Lord of the Treasury whether the efforts which have been made hitherto by the British nation for the suppression of the African Slave-trade might not, with advantage, be extended to the continent of America, and whether the time had not at length arrived when it became the duty of Her Majesty's Government to enter into friendly negotiations with the Federal Government of the United States, for the purpose of concerting measures for the gradual but total suppression of the Slave-trade in the Confederate States.

Lord Palmerston said his honorable friend was aware that the Federal Government of America had concluded a treaty with Her Majesty, giving a mutual right of search for the purpose of suppressing the Slave-trade. With regard to the Confederate States, they had passed a law which rendered the Slave-trade highly penal, but his honorable friend must be aware that the Federal Government had no relations with the Confederate States except the relations of war—(laughter)—and of course could not hold intercourse with them with a view to the arrangements referred to by the honorable member. As Her Majesty's Government had not yet acknowledged the independence of the Confederate States, that independence not being established in a manner to justify such acknowledgment, no communication could take place between Her Majesty's Government and the Confederate States. But in course of time, if things should alter, they should hope, if the Confederate States should succeed in establishing independence, they would make arrangements similar to those which the Federal Government had made.

Mr. Cowperan said the question he asked the noble lord was whether the Government could not enter into communication with the Federal States for the suppression of the Slave-trade on the continent of America.

Lord Palmerston said he thought he had already answered the question. As he had stated, the Federal Government had no relations at present with the Confederate States except the relations of war, and that of course did not admit of any action of theirs with the view of carrying out the arrangements the honorable member referred to.

AFFAIRS IN REBELDOM.

Under date of May 17, the special correspondent of the London Times writes from Richmond:

THE CHANCELLORSVILLE BATTLE.

The unchronicled incidents of the week of battles—the unconsidered trifles which await picking up and collection, would fill a volume. It is singular how badly, on the whole, the Federal Germans have fought. Finer material, so far as the eye can judge, than many of these German regiments cannot be conceived. The chief distinction which they have gained in this war has been an proficiency in the art of Bonkerism. Their flight was indignantly witnessed by Capt. Schenkerr, their countryman, who joined the Confederate army about two months ago as Commissioner, sent by the Prussian Government to report upon that army's organization and efficiency, and who is attached to the Staff of Gen. Stuart. An incident which befell this officer after the battle of Sunday has afforded general amusement. Anxious to procure forage for his sorry steed, after the great battle of Chancellorsville, he undertook an expedition in search of a house, and, after wandering some distance, came upon a shanty, in the door of which stood a negro woman. He was proceeding to importune her in the best English which he could command for corn, when from behind her issued no less than six Yankees, musket on shoulder. Capt. Schenkerr was dressed in Confederate uniform, and although there is good reason to think that the Yankees desired much more to be taken than to take prisoners, his fate appeared inevitable. But taking heart of grace, he drew and flourished a tremendous German sabre, exclaiming, "Surrender!" behind me finds itself all "the cavalleery." The Yankees made no remonstrance, and he marched them, musket still on shoulder, for a mile and a half until he rejoined Gen. Stuart. Just before they reached the General, one of the prisoners thinking that some special was needed under the circumstances, exclaimed, "Captain, had we known that your cavalry was such a long way off, we'd have taken you prisoner instead." As Capt. Schenkerr was standing near Gen. Lee during the battle a spent bullet rolled nearly up to the feet of the latter. Picking it up the General politely handed it to the Captain as a memento, destined, doubtless, to make its way to Prussia and adorn many a tale hereafter. Capt. Schenkerr expresses his enthusiastic admiration of the élan and spirit with which the Confederate soldiers skirmish and fight.

The writer then compares the aggregate loss sustained by the two parties engaged. The reliability and accuracy of his estimates may be inferred from the fact that he sets down the rebel loss in prisoners at 1,200, when nearly 3,000 of them taken at Chancellorsville have been delivered at City Point for exchange. He adds:

"Unquestionably, Chancellorsville and its concomitant struggles were among the costliest, if not the costliest, defeats which the Federals have ever sustained. It is not likely that your readers will, for a moment, have been taken in by the swaggering announcement that this shattered army is again acting on the offensive, or ever likely again to cross the Golgotha which awaits it on the southern bank of the Rappahannock. Other destinies are in store for it, and so its leaders, however little they may like the prospect, very well know. In the meantime the condition of the long tongue of land between the Rappahannock and Potomac Rivers, which is called the Northern Neck, baffles belief. Over this whole district deserters swarm in incredible numbers. What little food was left to the miserable inhabitants of this devastated region is lost from them by swarms of famishing deserters, who have no plan but to get down in any way to the Potomac, and get themselves south over that, or cross together, rafts, upon which seem the strange. A portion of Gen. Longstreet's cavalry is [illegible] Olive, and another is [illegible] before the [illegible] Mr. Dr. Mercantile [illegible] agents and friends of his respective candidates in every village of the district in which he was a candidate, telling the electors that by voting for the man they would name our war policy would kill their children in ignorance; who supported the old régime with all its abuses; the war in Italy; salt at five sous the pound, and cheese at 30f. the hundred." This list is one of the striking instances of the sort of argument in favor of universal suffrage. The mixture of lies and prejudice with the cheese and salt may be amusing, but it has proved effective. Its lying is enormous, considering that the first occasion of M. de Montalembert's appearing in public life was his trial before the House of Peers, of which he was a member, for having sought to break through the monopoly in education, claimed by the University, by opening a free school in Paris, and he was then scarcely 24 years old. As for restoring "the old régime with all its abuses," everybody knows that the "ancien régime" never had a more unsparing critic, at least among persons of M. Montalembert's religion and caste. What was meant by the "war in Italy" passed my comprehension, unless the Perfect wished to imply that he was against the war in 1859. At any rate, it is a waverly performance. And deserves to be noticed as a foretaste of what the ignorant peasants would have to vote upon wherever it is sought to introduce universal suffrage.

That the elections in Paris are not the only lesson which ought to be safely turned to account is evident from the large minorities obtained by the Opposition candidates in many places.

With the figures before us it is evident that the success of the Opposition would have been much greater had not the voice of the peasantry outweighed the more enlightened populations of the towns. But even with this disadvantage, any one who compares the returns of 1857 with those of the present year will see that the Opposition has made considerable advance for the last six years. It is an important fact which has not escaped the attention of the Emperor.

The Paris correspondent of the Daily News, writing on Tuesday evening, says:

I do not hesitate to mention a piece of news which I think comes from a good source, though, of course, I cannot be quite sure that it is true. I am told that at the protracted Council, presided over by the Emperor, on Saturday, M. de Persigny proposed to meet the Paris elections by reactionary measures. He vehemently denounced the "ingratitude" of the Parisians, called them "incorrigible," insisted that they were fit for nothing but coercion, and proposed that the Emperor should revoke his famous liberal decree of November. The other ministers, while speaking in fulsome warm terms of the concessions of November, which they said they would not have advised, were nevertheless of opinion that it would be imprudent, at this time of day, to go back. The Emperor simply said that the question was not ripe for discussion, and that he would consider what should be done at some future time. It is reported that he is quite as much irritated as M. de Persigny, but his hesitation gives a locus penitentiæ, of which it is hoped he will have wisdom enough to take advantage.

THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

[OFFICIAL.]

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Special Session, June 25, 1863.

The Board met pursuant to the following call:

New-York, June 25, 1863.

David T. Valentine, Esq., Clerk of the Common Council:

Sir: You will please notify the members of the Board of Aldermen to meet in the Chamber of the Board, City Hall, on Thursday, the twenty-fifth instant, (to-day,) at four o'clock P. M., for the purpose of transacting such public business as may come before the Board.

JACOB M. LONG, Alderman 19th District.
JOHN FOX, Alderman 1st District.
T. J. A. BOOLE, Alderman 12th District.
CHARLES J. CHIPP, Alderman 7th District.
JEREMIAH JEFFERSON, Alderman 15th District.
LEWIS R. RYERS, Alderman 8th District.
JOHN T. HENRY, Alderman 3d District.
PETER MITCHELL, Alderman 5th District.
CHARLES H. HALL, Alderman 4th District.
JOHN McCOOL, Alderman 6th District.
JAMES REED, Alderman 9th District.
JOHN HARDY, Alderman 11th District.
TERENCE FARLEY, Alderman 16th District.

The roll having been called, the following gentlemen answered to their names:

Aldermen Fox, Henry, Hall, McCool, Chipp, Mitchell, Ryers, Jeremiah, Hardy, Masterson, Farley and Long.

On motion, Alderman Fox, Alderman Henry was called to the chair.

On motion, the reading of the minutes of the last meeting was dispensed with.

MOTIONS.

Alderman Farley moved to discharge the Committee on Public Health from further consideration of the report of Committee on Public Health from the Board of Councilmen, to fence the north side of Fifty-fifth-street, between Second and Third avenues. Also, to fence vacant lots on Fifty-first and Fifty-second streets, between Second and Third avenues.

Which was carried.

And the paper was laid over.

REPORTS.

The Committee on National Affairs presented a report requesting the Comptroller to issue bonds for harbor defence.

Which was laid over.

In connection with the foregoing, Alderman Farley presented the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the Committee on National Affairs of the Common Council are hereby directed conjointly to confer immediately with his Excellency the Governor of this State, Honorable Horatio Seymour, and Honorable Edwin D. Morgan, members of the Commission authorized by the Legislature to take up the Legislature for the harbors and frontier of the State, on the subject of the protection of the harbor of the City of New-York, to ascertain what action that Commission have taken in regard to such protection, or if they have not yet taken any steps in this direction, what will probably be their action in reference to strengthening the defences of this harbor.

Which was unanimously adopted, and directed to be transmitted to the Board of Councilmen for concurrence therein.

The Committee on Fire Department presented a report concerning the purchase of a lot of ground for the use of Engine Company number Thirty-three.

Which was laid over.

The Committee on Wharves, Piers and Slips presented a report to build a pier at the foot of Forty-eighth-street, North River.

Which was laid over.

RESOLUTIONS.

By Alderman Farley—

Whereas, A regiment of infantry, to be designated the Eighty-third Regiment of the New-York State National Guard, is now in course of formation in this city, under the leadership of the Hon. Frederick A. Conkling; and,

Whereas, The said corps designs to enter the service of the Government as soon as it shall have perfected their organization, which will probably be in a few days; and,

Whereas, The company commanders of the said corps need some pecuniary aid in addition to such as they have been able to obtain from private contributions of our citizens, to enable them to perfect the organization of their respective commands; therefore be it

Resolved, That the sum of one hundred dollars be and the same is hereby appropriated to each company of the said corps, to constitute a regimental fund in aid of the commencement of the regiment. The vouchers, when vouched, the amount to be charged by the Comptroller to the account of Donations, to be paid over to the commandant of the regiment.

Which was laid over.

MOTIONS RESUMED.

Alderman Mitchell moved to suspend the regular order of business in order to take up papers from the Board of Councilmen.

Which was carried.

PAPERS FROM THE BOARD OF COUNCILMEN.

Preamble and resolution repealing the right of the Harlem Railroad Company to lay rails and run their cars in Broadway and other streets, passed heretofore by the Common Council, and approved by the Mayor on the twenty-third day of April, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three.

Alderman Long moved a concurrence with the Board of Councilmen.

As an amendment, Alderman McCool moved a reference of the paper to the Committee on Railroads.

Which was not seconded.

Whereupon Alderman Long renewed his motion for an amendment, and on his motion called for the previous question. The question then being "Shall the main question be now put?" was decided in the affirmative. The main question, being on concurrence with the Board of Councilmen, was then put and carried by the following vote:

Affirmative—Aldermen Fox, Henry, Hall, Reed, Chipp, Mitchell, Ryers, Jeremiah, Hardy, Masterson, Ottiwell, Long—11.

Negative—Aldermen McCool, Hardy, Farley—3.

Resolution that permission be given to William Kramer to place two gas-lamps in front of his premises, numbers fifty and fifty and one-half Bowery, at his own expense, under the direction of the Street Commissioner, such permission to remain only during the pleasure of the Common Council.

Which was concurred in.

PAPERS HERETOFORE LAID OVER.

Resolution of Board of Councilmen, that the wages of artmen employed by the Corporation, including the horse and cart, be increased to the rate of three dollars and fifty cents per day, said increase to date from the passage of this resolution.

Which was laid over.

Report of Committee on Street Openings of the Board of Councilmen, with resolution that the Counsel to the Corporation be directed to cause the necessary legal proceedings to be taken to widen Vestry-street on the northerly side, from Hudson-street to Greenwich-street, in accordance with a map now on file in the Register's office.

Which was concurred in by the following vote, viz.:

Affirmative—Aldermen Fox, Henry, Hall, McCool, Reed, Chipp, Mitchell, Ryers, Jeremiah, Hardy, Masterson, Ottiwell, Farley, Long—16.

Report of Committee on Roads, in favor of adopting resolution that Fifty-fourth-street, between Broadway and Eighth-avenue, be paved with Belgian or trap-block pavement, under the direction of the Croton Aqueduct Board, and that the accompanying ordinance therefor be adopted.

Which was adopted by the following vote:

Affirmative—Aldermen Fox, Henry, Hall, McCool, Reed, Chipp, Mitchell, Ryers, Jeremiah, Hardy, Masterson, Ottiwell, Long—12.

Report of Committee on Roads, in favor of concurring with Board of Councilmen in adopting resolution that Seventy-second-street, between Broadway and Eighth-avenue, be regulated and graded, under the direction of the Street Commissioner, with the ordinance therefor.

Which was adopted by the following vote:

Affirmative—Aldermen Henry, Hall, McCool, Reed, Chipp, Mitchell, Ryers, Jeremiah, Hardy, Masterson, Ottiwell, Long—12.

Report of Committee on Roads, in favor of concurring with Board of Councilmen in adopting resolution that Seventy-sixth-street, from Fifth-avenue to East River, be regulated and graded under the direction of the Street Commissioner; and that the accompanying ordinance therefor be adopted.

Which was adopted by the following vote:

Affirmative—Aldermen Henry, Hall, McCool, Reed, Chipp, Mitchell, Ryers, Jeremiah, Hardy, Masterson, Ottiwell, Long—12.

On motion, the Board adjourned, and the President announced that the Board stand adjourned until next Monday afternoon at one o'clock.

D. T. VALENTINE, Clerk.

Hudson River Railroad.—A new time-table, embracing changes in running the local trains on this railroad, goes into effect on Monday next, 29th inst.

FRIDAY, June 26—P. M.

The price of Gold Coin varied but slightly to-day, owing to the absence of authentic or exciting news. The last sales at the Stock Exchange Board were at 144¼@144¾ ▼ cent. Exchange on London for Saturday's mail is also steady at 158 ▼ cent. for first-class Bankers. The rates for Money on the Street are 6@7 ▼ cent. to the Stock Brokers, and on the hypothecation of Gold Coin. There is a fair supply to-day, though no very decided ease except at the outside rate of 1 ▼ cent. The demand from the Stock Brokers is much less pressing than last week. The principal excitement on the Exchange for a day or two has been, and is yet, in Harlem Shares, which require very little Money from the Street, the principal buyer having abundant means of his own at all times in Bank to pay for the stock as it is delivered to his Broker.

The conversions of United States Currency into the 5-20 years 6 ▼ cents were heavily on the latest to-day. The subscriptions direct at the Treasury Office reach $1,097,250, and at the Loan Agency, $747,550; together $1,844,800. The Deposits with the Treasury, on 5 ▼ cent. interest, amount to $497,950. The disbursements of the Treasury, to-day, are also very large. Total Receipts, $3,749,469 98; for Customs, $124,000; Payments, $3,242,043 62; Balance, $25,736,287 86.

The speculation on the Stock Exchange to-day is stronger on the Railway Shares than at the close of business yesterday, though not equal to the demand, as a general remark, to the market of Wednesday. The exception is Harlem Stock, which, from 72½ last night, went rapidly up to 95@97 ▼ cent. this afternoon. The sales of the Stock during the day were in the aggregate more than half the Capital of 25,000 Shares, beginning in the Street, early in the morning, at 75 @76 ▼ cent. It may be safely stated that the entire Capital has been sold in the Street and on the Exchange in two days. The extreme difference between the views of the party who made the attack upon the Stock a few days since, in anticipation of the action of the Common Councils on the Broadway grant, and the buyers against this attack, is equal, perhaps, to full 50 ▼ cent. The former expected to drive the price below 60 ▼ cent.; the latter now feel quite confident of carrying it above 110 ▼ cent. The other Railways were stronger on Hudson and Erie, and rather weaker on Michigan Southern and Reading than last night. The Government and State Stocks were about the same as yesterday—a small fraction weaker on the actual sales. At 4 o'clock the following prices were made, as compared with last night, the market, except for Harlem, leaving off steady:

	Times.	Pr.		Times.	Pr.

They have regularly received 7 ▼ cent. interest, while all income to the Common Stockholders was in abeyance. Their conversion on the First of November next, to nearly or quite the entire amount, is rendered more than probable by the current and perspective profitable working of the Common Stock. In view of this contingency, we understand it is in contemplation to divide in the course of the next few months, to the greatest Stockholders, the surplus remaining to the credit of the Income account after the payment of the July Dividend, and to which the Bondholders, who may convert on the 1st November, could have no equitable claim.

We learn that the rich and celebrated Mariposa Gold-bearing estate in California has been sold to a party of wealthy New-York merchants and bankers, who will immediately organize as a joint stock association, under the general mining and manufacturing law of New-York, for the purpose of working the mines on the estate.

The earnings of the Toledo and Wabash Railway Company for the third week of June, were:

The coupons on the Bonds of the Beloit and Madison Railroad Company, due 1st of July, 1863, will be paid by G. S. ROBBINS & SON, at No. 54 William-street.

At an election of the Exchange Fire Insurance Company, held on the 24th inst., JAMES VAN NORDEN, Esq., was reelected President for the ensuing year.

The Imports of Foreign Dry Goods, at the port of New-York, week ending June 25, were $781,147 against $1,176,690 same week last year, and $237,719 the corresponding week of 1861. The following is the summary for the week:

Wool in the Interior.

The Buffalo market has been quiet during the week, with light receipts, and limited sales at 50c.@ 55c. ▼ lb. The Cooperstown (N. Y.) Freeman's Journal, of June 25, says: "But very little Wool this year has as yet been bought in this county. There are orders here from abroad at 45c.@50c., an average of 50c.; but these figures are below the views of growers, who prefer to hold on for higher prices." From the Elyria (Ohio) Democrat we learn that there have been some sales at 50@60c. The Toledo Blade says there are some small lots being purchased at 50c. @60c., according to quality. The Tecumseh (Mich.) Herald says Wool has opened at 50c. @60c. The Ann Arbor (Mich.) Journal says, we quote Wool at 50c.@60c. The Monroe (Mich.) Commercial says, Wool has been brought in more freely this week, with sales of 4,000 to 5,000 lbs. at 50c.@60c. The Detroit Free Press says, there is nothing doing beyond the purchase of a few small lots of course at 50c.@55c. At Cold Water, Mich., some 10,000 lbs. sold at 55c.@60c. for washed. On Friday last all the better lots sold at 60@65c. Messrs. WM. G. CUTLER & CO., in their Milwaukee Chronicle, June 20, say: "There are no developments in the wool market, as yet, worthy of note. Very little has been offered for sale. What little has come in at the various interior wool marts of the State has been bought by local buyers, at prices ranging from 45c. to 50c., mostly at 50c., to 55c. Prices at this market have been within same quotations. Our quotations do not admit of any great range as the wool is not graded till collected and offered in lots by dealers. The views of buyers and sellers differ materially, growers generally holding at 60c. to 65c., while a few are expecting still higher prices. Buyers are taking what few lots are offered at 50c. to 55c., the outside figure being their extreme price. No orders have been received from the East of sufficient magnitude to make any impression on the city, if filled, and what have been given are generally within too low limits, as to price, to enable buyers to fill them; till growers consider something on prices, Wool will come to market slowly, unless some change occurs in Eastern markets to reconcile the views of holders and purchasers. The entire clip of the State of Wisconsin will not fall much short of 2,500,000 lbs.—an increase of some 20 ▼ cent. over last year's clip. The increase in the number of sheep shorn, as compared with last year, would know a larger ▼ cent.; but the fleeces are lighter, owing to the favorable weather, between washing and shearing. The quality varies from ¼ to ⅜ blood Merino, with a few clips in nearly every county equal to the best Ohio fleeces. The condition is good; light, well washed, and generally neatly put up."

GENERAL MARKETS.

NEW-YORK, Friday, June 26, 1863—6 P. M.

The receipts of the principal kinds of Produce since our last have been 73 bbls. Ashes, 24,596 bbls. Flour, 3,150 bbls. and 402 bags Corn Meal, 100,725 bushels Wheat, 111,587 bushels Corn, 75 bushels Rye, 121,468 bushels Oats, 2,724 pkgs. Provisions, and 1,837 bbls. Whisky.

Rye is in fair demand at 97c.@$1 03, according to quality, ▼ bushel. Sales, 5,000 bushels. Oats are in moderate request, including Canada at 76c.@76c.; Western at 75c.@77c.; State at 77c.@77½c. ▼ bushel. Barley and Barley Malt continue quiet and nominal. The Breadstuff trade of Milwaukee, week ending with June 24, Messrs. Geo. I. Jones & Co. review thus: "Flour Prices are lower on the inferior grades. Owing to the high price of wheat compared with flour a good many mills in this section have stopped grinding. Freight to New-York by lake and canal, 90c.; by lake and rail, 95c. Receipts for week, 9,422 bbls. against 11,302 bbls. same week last year. Shipments, since opening navigation, 243,612 bbls. WHEAT—The sales during the past week have been about equal to the receipts, and there has been but little variation in prices. Shipments have been fair, and the stock in store is reduced to about 1,250,000 bushels, against about 1,900,000 bushels same date last year. The weather recently has been very dry, but within last day or two moderate rains have fallen. Receipts for week have averaged 46,500 bushels per day against an average of 71,000 bushels for corresponding days last year. Freight to Buffalo steady, 6c.@8½c., and to Oswego 14c. The Cincinnati Price Current, June 24, says: "In the provision market this is especially the case, and forced sales cannot be made, except at prices far below the nominal quotations. Forced sales of Bacon shoulders were made, for instance, at 3½c.@3¾c., while Bulk Shoulders are held at 4½c. Old Mess Pork was sold a little lower, owing to an advance in New-York, and about 1,000 bbls. sold at $9 37, but it was easier to buy at the close, prices in New-York having declined 25c. We never remember to have seen a more lifeless market for Pork and Bacon than now exists, not only in this, but in all the other markets."

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

Gov. CURTIN last evening received information that the rebels occupied Gettysburgh yesterday with ten regiments of infantry, and with cavalry and artillery. It is supposed that this force intends to strike the Northern Central Railroad either at Hanover Junction or York, distant about thirty miles. The Governor also received information that the rebels were holding all the passes of South Mountain. Gen. EWELL, it appears, entered Chambersburgh on the 24th. On that day he issued an order to the inhabitants forbidding them to sell liquor to his soldiers, and admonishing persons not in the military service to abstain from all acts of hostility, under penalty of being dealt with in a summary manner. On the approach of the rebels to Carlisle on Thursday evening Gen. KNIPE, not feeling strong enough to hold the place against so large a force as was supposed to be coming, evacuated it. He reported the rebel force at ten thousand. Up to a late hour last night, the rebels had not occupied the place, though they were expected to do so immediately. It is believed that EWELL's main force has halted back of Chambersburgh, with the intention of awaiting reinforcements—holding, in the meantime, all the roads and passes in the vicinity.

Our Special Correspondent at Frederick, Md., telegraphs that LONGSTREET's corps, before reported as encamped in the Boonsboro Valley, has advanced toward Pennsylvania. Gen. LEE and Staff are reported to be on the north side of the Potomac.

We learn from the Baltimore American, of yesterday, that the Army of the Potomac was in motion on Thursday.

Gov. CURTIN will issue a proclamation to-day calling for 50,000 militia for the defence of the State, to serve for three months. Gen. W. F. SMITH has been assigned to the command of the defences of the Susquehanna River, and Col. PIERCE has been assigned to the command of the troops at Bloody Run and vicinity, Gen. MEREDY having been relieved.

A telegram was received by Gen. SCHENCK, on Thursday morning, from Gen. TYLER, at Maryland Heights, stating that there was no present prospect of a fight in that neighborhood, no rebel forces having been seen within eight miles of the Heights. The command are in excellent spirits, and ready for any emergency.

A letter received in New-Haven announces the evacuation of Suffolk by our forces, and the arrival at Portsmouth of the following regiments: The Eighth, Eleventh, Fifteenth, Sixteenth and Twenty-first Connecticut; also, the Fourth Rhode Island, Thirteenth New-Hampshire, Twenty-fifth New-Jersey and Thirteenth Indiana. These troops are probably needed in some other direction.

Our advices from New-Orleans are to the 19th inst., by the arrival at this port of the steamer Creole. There is nothing later from Port Hudson, than the brief dispatch from Gen. BANKS, received up the Mississippi, and published a day or two ago. The tugboat Boston, captured by the rebels near Pass-a-l'Outre, in addition to the bark Lenox, before reported, had captured and destroyed the bark Texana, also from New-York for New-Orleans, with an assorted cargo. The Boston then stood toward the Chandeleurs.

The following-named Massachusetts regiments are under the command of Gen. BANKS, and are all probably engaged in the siege of Port Hudson: Fourth, term expires June 26; Forty-second, July 14; Forty-seventh, July 31; Forty-eighth, August 15; Forty-ninth, July 28; Fiftieth, June 30; Fifty-second, July 11; Fifty-third, August 6.

Our advices from Newbern, N. C., to the 23d inst., indicate that everything is quiet at present in the Department of North Carolina. There is a story, however, brought by rebel deserters from Wilmington, that the two iron-clads there are about ready, and intend to make a raid among our blockaders off that port. They are plated with five inches of iron, backed by eighteen inches of wood, and mount heavy guns. Wilmington is said to be strongly fortified, and capable of long resistance to a superior force. The discontent with rebel rule in North Carolina is said to be growing every day more intense.

Gen. FOSTER, commanding the Department of North Carolina, when he heard of the advance of LEE, at once made arrangements to transport all his available troops to Fortress Monroe, to place them at the disposal of Gen. DIX.

The depredations of the rebel pirate Tacony in our immediate vicinity still continue. Several other ships and schooners, and a sidewheel steamer, name unknown, are reported this morning as having been destroyed on the Massachusetts coast. The merchants of Boston are actively moving in the matter, and vessels are being rapidly fitted out and dispatched in pursuit of the depredator. Considerable activity also prevails at our Navy-yard in the dispatch of vessels in pursuit. A dispatch from Portland also gives intelligence that three rebel pirates have made their appearance off the mouth of the Bay of Fundy, and commenced depredations there. They are described as a large steamer, a bark, and a three-masted schooner.

The Boston Transcript, in a recent article on the subject of Gen. GRANT's operations, says: "Gen. GRANT has not been willing to abide altogether by the chances of PEMBERTON's surrender on account of a lack of provisions and ammunition. Hence he has constantly kept his topographical engineers and working parties engaged in making scientific approaches, with a view to rendering the Confederate works untenable by a final assault. We confess we look more to this than to the starving-out process for speedy success at Vicksburgh, and unless all signs fail, we do not see how the crowning victory can be delayed many days longer."

GENERAL NEWS.

The steamship Champion arrived at this port yesterday from Aspinwall, which port she left on the 17th inst. She brought $187,000 in treasure. Everything was quiet on the Isthmus. The news from Central and South America is of no importance. Capt. LEACH, of the ship George Green, had made a statement before the American Consul at Callao, relative to the piratical steamship alleged by him to have been seen off Cape Horn. His story is very circumstantial. It is conjectured, however, that the steamer seen might have been the British steamer Fort Yuma, bound to San Francisco, which was off Cape Horn about the same time.

Part of the cargo on board of the California-bound ship Commonwealth, recently destroyed by the pirate Alabama, consisted of all the gas fixtures and machinery intended for lighting Virginia City, W. T., with gas.

The Stock Market was very much excited in Harlem Shares, in consequence of the extraordinary proceeding of the City Councils to repeal the recent Broadway grant. The Stock advanced twenty-five per cent., in place of falling 10 or 15 ▼ cent., as expected by the parties who engineered the City Hall movement of Thursday night. The other Railways were steady. Gold Coin about the same as on Thursday night, Exchange on London 158 ▼ cent. Money in fair supply, at 6@7 ▼ cent. The sales of Government Stock at the Treasury Office and Loan Agency were nearly two million of dollars.

Breadstuffs were less active yesterday, and prices were depressed. Provisions, Sugars, Whisky, Tallow, Petroleum, Hay, Hides, Leather, Salt and New-Orleans Molasses were in fair demand at, in the main, uniform prices. Coffee was more sought after, but at rather easier rates. Cotton was in good request and quoted higher. The principal transactions in Dry Goods were in domestic Woolens and Cottons, the latter of which advanced 7@15 ▼ cent. during the week, influencing a rather animated speculative inquiry. Moderate freight engagements were reported.

Thoughts for the Day.

The people turn to the newspapers daily, with anxiety never surpassed in the war, to learn the military situation around Washington. Is LEE's army in the Shenandoah Valley, or is it in Maryland? Is it moving upon Baltimore and Washington, or is it advancing into Pennsylvania? And then as to our own army—where is it and what is it doing? Is HOOKER moving to head off the invasion and drive the rebels back whence they came, or is he striving to get into the rear of LEE's army and prevent its return to Virginia; expecting then to grind it to powder between Northern militia and his own host of men and power of artillery?

We present, in other columns, all the rumors, reports and facts we have, and our readers may take them, and make up each his own theory; for beyond these we know nothing, and every one will be more pleased with his own deductions than with any that may be made for him.

But yet it may be well to say that, though the late rebel demonstrations have been, and perhaps still are, properly characterized as "alarming," they are by no means so gloomy as many seem to have supposed. Gen. HOOKER has a powerful army in his hands, near Washington. It has such leaders as SICKLES, MEADE, SLOCUM, PLEASANTON, gallant old HAYMAN and others, who on a score of fields have led their troops to battle. And, whatever else has failed, the fighting qualities of the soldiers—never! Well, then, the Army of the Potomac, with such spirits to lead it, must count for something when LEE's army invades the North. Will it not be equal to the rebels, and more? We shall soon see. Certain it is, the North need be in no undue hurry, if LEE is coming this way. Every day of his advance will place a thicker forest of bayonets in his front and on his flanks. He may think these bayonets will not be held as firmly as his own. Perhaps they will fall back as he advances; but, in any event, his advance will and must stop ere long, and woe is him when it does stop and the retrograde begins! The militia will show their mettle then; and, with the Army of the Potomac in his return path, and an innumerable host of wronged and robbed loyalists in his rear, History will repeat itself in one of its most terrible stories of invasion ending in irretrievable disaster.

There is certainly, so far, no ground for despondency. We have lost no battle. We have lost no army. We have strength, courage and resources exhaustless. We have not begun to think of final defeat. We are only annoyed by delays and distressed by gigantic movements, the object and end of which we cannot see nor foresee. We are at our wit's end in guessing—that's all. Let us gird up our loins—take fresh courage, fight the fight of brave men, proud of their country and confident of their cause—and when the battle is over, let the rebels, not us, ask—Where is LEE's army?

A few days may put a wonderfully different aspect on our affairs. Vicksburgh we hold in the hollow of our hands. Who doubts it? It may fall to-day or to-morrow. When it does fall, BRAGG's army is flanked and defeated. Thus, two rebel armies, PEMBERTON's and BRAGG's, will go down at a blow, and with them the great rebel States of the Southwest that they have defended. Will the Cumberland Valley, or the Capital of Pennsylvania pay JEFF. DAVIS for them? We hardly think so.

ALL HONOR TO PITTSBURGH.—We commended highly the City of Pittsburgh, yesterday, for its spirited and thorough action in preparing to meet the rebel invasion. We stated that the stores had all been closed for a week, and the citizens had turned out almost en masse, and from 8,000 to 10,000 were working on the fortifications. We now find that we did not, in this honorable statement, do that brave community much over half justice. The Pittsburgh Gazette, of Thursday, says: "The work is progressing on a gigantic scale—14,000 men at work to-day; and these 14,000, with 14,000 more to back them, can lay down their picks and shovels, and take up muskets and rifles, or man the batteries." And the Gazette expects the people not to be contented with the defence of their city, but to take up arms and "march" to meet and expel the invader. That is a glorious voice to come up from the hallowed site of old Fort Duquesne. In sight of Pittsburgh the dark struggle took place which brought out the military genius of GEORGE WASHINGTON; and it is a happy omen that in the present day of Pennsylvania's discouragement and humiliation, a spirit so dauntless shines out near the field of WASHINGTON's maiden battle.

The Siege of Vicksburgh.

It is now forty days since the siege of Vicksburgh was commenced. It was on the 18th of May—the day after that on which was fought the last of the five victorious battles which illustrated GRANT's march, that the investment of the city was effected. The three corps of the army moved up to the siege work after their field-struggles with irresistible determination and unflinching valor—SHERMAN's corps on the right, McPHERSON's in the centre and McCLERNAND's on the left. During these forty days, the hard labors of the siege have been prosecuted steadily and unintermittingly. By day and by night, the great siege guns have flung their tremendous projectiles into the doomed city; while several times in the day and night, the bells of the clocks of Vicksburgh gave the signal to our mortar-boats in the river to open their fires and throw their death-laden bombs among the rebels. Latterly we have been informed that Gen. GRANT was about to use red-hot shot in his bombardment, which would probably have the effect of at least destroying the town; but as its people are all said to have taken refuge in caves dug in the hill-sides, they might escape any serious inconvenience from this cause. Since the general assault made upon the rebel works, four days after investment, nothing farther of the kind has been attempted—though Gen. GRANT's action in dismissing from command Gen. McCLERNAND, who was mainly blamed for the failure of that attack, indicates that GRANT did not consider the failure to take the works by storm to be owing to their impregnability to direct assault.

Of the effect of this great and long-continued bombardment of Vicksburgh from the rear, from both flanks, and from the front, we really know very little. We know little more than what has been learned from deserters and prisoners; and in nearly every detail their stories have contradicted each other in all sorts of ways. We have also obtained positions on our line from which men can look down into the city, but observations taken in this way have not as yet resulted in much reliable knowledge. There is little doubt, however, that we have done very great damage to the place and to the army holding it—that we have made some positions untenable—have harassed the enemy's army greatly—have destroyed much of his stores, and reduced him to a point of great exhaustion.

When Gen. GRANT moved up to the investment of Vicksburgh no one in his army, nor in the country, imagined that the city would hold out for this length of time. It was the concurrent testimony from within that there were only supplies for a week or two on hand. Subsequently it was asserted that the supplies could not hold out for a month, even with the army and people on half rations. And since the close of the first week and of the first month of the siege, or within the last fortnight, deserters and prisoners have declared that the garrison and the citizens were on quarter rations, and could not possibly hold out more than a few days longer. It may be that there has been and is a fair degree of truth in all this. We are inclined, on the whole, to give it some credence. The Southern correspondent of the London Times, in a letter dated at Richmond on the 17th, and which seems to be based on facts derived from JEFF. DAVIS himself, says that "Vicksburgh was then amply provisioned for some weeks to come." It is nearly five weeks since the date of that letter; and it is probably only by restricting the men to the sparest diet that supplies have lasted thus long.

The great hope of the rebels—and the thing which probably has induced them to hold out so determinedly at Vicksburgh—has been the army of Gen. JOHNSTON. That army was to fall upon GRANT's rear, and compel the raising of the siege. If JOHNSTON had had a respectable force when the investment was begun, there might have been some danger to us from this. But now, the works defending GRANT's rear are as strong as the rebel works in his front; and GRANT's army has also been reinforced since the siege was opened, until now it is far stronger than it was when he routed the armies of JOHNSTON and PEMBERTON in the open field. Gen. GRANT himself says that he does not fear JOHNSTON, though the latter had an army of a hundred thousand men; and Gen. GRANT is an officer who neither does nor says things at random.

We think, on the whole, that the day of Vicksburgh's fall is not now far off. There is no doubt that the fall is sure. If the rebels are not soon brought to their knees by starvation and harassment, we understand that the engineering operations of Gen. GRANT are likely soon to give him positions from which he can make a grand assault with every prospect of success.

INDIANS ON THE WAR-PATH.—The Indian Department has news of the assemblage of 10,000 warlike Indians of different tribes at Fort Larned, Kansas. It is thought that unless they are soon enlisted to fight for the Union, they will give us much trouble. Five hundred thousand dollars were distributed among them some time since by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to keep them peaceable, and he now urges upon the Secretary of War the propriety of enlisting them into our military service.

We cut the above from the Washington correspondence of the Tribune, and publish it here to say we like it. We have seldom met anything more compact, specific and intelligible. It is sometimes thought that the Western tribes of "red-skins" are suspicious, dissociated and repellent, much given, like Kilkenny cats, to destroying each other. This is all a mistake. On the other hand, they are remarkable for fraternity of feeling and associated effort. Nothing, it will be found, is more common than for 10,000, or any larger or smaller number of "warlike Indians of different tribes" to assemble in mass meeting at United States forts and demand a great price for being "peaceable." And our Commissioner of Indian Affairs is ever found equal to such a crisis. Whenever he hears of these alarming demonstrations he goes to the "Great Father" ABRAHAM, procures several millions of dollars, and rushes to the rescue. He scatters greenbacks among the bronzed braves, and forthwith the crisis is past!

Mr. Commissioner DOLE has just carried us over a crisis—he has just doled out "five hundred thousand dollars" among 10,000 warlike Indians assembled at Fort Larned, to "keep them peaceable," and it has acted like a charm. It made the warlike Indians so very amiable and peaceable that "unless they are soon enlisted to fight for the Union, they will give us much trouble." The "five hundred thousand dollars" instead of keeping them "peaceable" has made them more warlike and ungovernable. They are likely to give us "trouble" now—that is, burn Western villages and hamlets, and scalp the women and children of the frontier, if we do not make them our immediate allies in civilized war! Truly, this is another crisis, and the Indian Bureau had better distribute "five hundred thousand dollars" more to them to "keep them peaceable" until we decide what to do.

But, of course, we must "enlist" these Indians. We cannot distribute among them a half million dollars every day to "keep them peaceable," though we have never so much money. Besides, what rich outlerships will grow out of the organization—what contracts for food and transportation—what a margin for profit between habitual dog-soup and hypothetical salt pork! Doesn't the country see that we must find some way to keep these Indians "peaceable?"

The Duty of State Defence.

One of the newspapers published in Washington, reflecting accurately, we have no doubt, the sentiments of the War Department, observes that the most deplorable fact involved in the present situation is, certainly, "the apparent utter incompetency of the people of Pennsylvania to protect themselves, and aid the cause, even to the poor extent of driving their horses and cattle North, and concealing their coveted other goods, before the different little squads of rebel cavalry pounce on them."

We have not been struck by the alacrity of Pennsylvania farmers—the class whom we find thus impugned—in rushing to arms in the defence of their homes and their country. On the contrary, we have noted with surprise the apathy that [illegible] in some parts of Pennsylvania in the presence of invasion. But, whatever citizens of other States, and civilians generally, may think of it, we cannot help hoping that proceeds comes with ill grace from a source ordinarily inspired by the War Department. It does not become Washington, whose population and whose inmates are protected by no small proportion of the hundred thousand soldiers that Pennsylvania has sent to the war, to flout and insult that State because it is itself invaded in the absence of its armed sons and champions.

If Pennsylvania, or any other State, is expected to defend itself from the public enemy, let the troops of such State, now in the military service, be returned, and doubtless they will be equal to the duty of protecting their State. Or if Pennsylvania, or any other State, is expected to send out the flower of its manhood to protect Washington, and at the same time to defend its own people from invasion, let such State be timely warned of its duty and its danger. And then if it is unprepared when the enemy comes, let the disgrace be trumpeted through all the land, beginning at Washington. But as the matter now stands, Washington is the last place in the country that should raise the clamor against any State for failing, unarmed and unprepared, to defend itself against sudden and formidable danger. Pennsylvania, with all the loyal States, has trusted the defence of her soil to the General Government—has given to that Government her soldiers, her moral support and her money. In return, Pennsylvania has been promised peace, security and early victory over the rebellion—the "backbone" of which has been fifty times "broken," according to the Washington authorities, and its utter demise soon to be celebrated by a feu de joie in the captured City of Richmond! Was Pennsylvania wrong for believing these siren notes from Headquarters—repeated so recently from the field of Chancellorsville, promising an early resumption of offensive movements against the shattered remains of LEE's army? Pennsylvania has had from Washington no warning of danger, but has been lulled by official war-bulletins into a false security. The enemy has leaped into their midst as a wolf into a sheep-fold; and the frightened, unarmed, unorganized farmers naturally flee in terror. They seek first their own safety, and that of their wives and little ones. The Washington newspaper thinks it a clear case of poltroonery, and that, neglecting their families, and leaving them to the mercy of rebels, they would be more creditably employed in hiding their treasures, burning their barns, and running off their horses and cattle to places of safety! Possibly frightened wives and children think and feel otherwise.

To sum up the matter, we declare that while the country at large may criticise the people of Pennsylvania for any lack of judgment or ardor manifested on the present trying occasion, it becomes Washington to "put its hand on its mouth and its mouth in the dust." While Washington monopolizes the military power and resources of the States, it has no right to cast upon the States the duty of self-defence. If Washington is prepared to admit that it is unequal to the work of defending the States, then we doubt not Pennsylvania will address herself with an entirely different spirit and greatly different results, to the expulsion of invading strikers. At all events, Washington is a glass house and its newspapers should not throw stones.

Admiral Foote.

It is remarkable that during the war we have, until the death of Admiral FOOTE, lost none of our great naval commanders,—and even he died of disease, and not by the hand of the enemy. Of brave and distinguished Generals, our losses have been enormous; and from the death of Gen. LYON, at Springfield, down to the death of Gen. BERRY, at Chancellorsville, nearly every field of any magnitude has been reddened by the blood of some brave officer who had the single or double star upon his shoulder. But, though our heavy naval battles, by river and sea, run up to at least a score, and though our commanders have bared their brave breasts to every danger, Death has strangely spared them from his darts. DUPONT, FARRAGUT, STRINGHAM, the two POWELLS, WORDEN and others, who fought our first naval battles, are still among us, and only one of them, so far as we remember, has even been wounded.

The death of Admiral FOOTE will fill the whole people of the land with profound grief. His labors in his country's service have been long and valuable, but his career in a prominent position was very brief and very brilliant. His personal character, too, was one which commanded perfect admiration. In every grace of the Christian, in every virtue of the man, in every element of the patriot, in every noble quality of the sailor, in every characteristic of the hero, Admiral FOOTE stood out as a model. He was with his ship what Stonewall JACKSON was with his division, and his mode of attack, his style of manœuvre, his dash and daring, resembled greatly those of the rebel General. While the latter, however, had the brand of traitor on his brow, Admiral FOOTE was crowned with the true glory of patriotism.

AFFAIRS IN FRANCE.

The Reception of the News of the Fall of Puebla—A Demand for the Close of the Mexican War—The Emperor and the Elections—The News from Vicksburgh, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PARIS, Friday, June 12, 1863.

The good people of Paris were startled yesterday by the roaring of the big guns at the Invalides in honor of the fall of Puebla—the Mexican Sebastopol. You will observe that I use the word "fall," and not "capture," because this is the phraseology the French use, and because the stubbornness of the defence, and the alarms of the French, entitle it to the rank of a big event in military history. The news did not arrive a minute too soon, for the uneasiness of the Government and the people was at its utmost point of endurance, and important steps were about to be taken in regard to it. On Saturday [illegible] such a pitch that Marshal NEY was called before the Council of Ministers and the Privy Council, which met at the Tuileries, under the Presidency of the Emperor, and was examined as to whether he would take charge of the expedition, or otherwise assume the position of Minister of War and chief Military Commander to take command in Mexico over Gen. FOREY. Marshal NEY is understood to have replied that he would only take command of the expedition on condition that he was not to be controlled in his operations, and that he must have 100,000 men under his command. Gen. SCOTT, he said, required 50,000 men for the enterprise at a time when the Mexicans were not so powerful as they now are, one-half of which number were destroyed. The Marshal seems to have read the history of Gen. SCOTT's campaign with a magnifying glass.

The liberal papers of this morning demand that the war in Mexico must now be brought to a rapid close, so as to enable the country to be prepared for the emergencies that may soon arise in connection with the Polish question. The anticipations of a war on this question are general, and since it implies a war upon the Rhine, the nation is prepared for and courts the event. The organs of the various parties and factions at Paris, which are ready enough to criticise the acts of the Administration on all other questions, are united in demanding a war for the Poles, if diplomacy should fail. On a question of war the nation has entire confidence in NAPOLEON, and it will tax itself to any extent required if the army is to march to the North. One of the planks in the platform of the Democratic party at the late election at Paris was: "No more wars of doubtful utility at a long distance from France;" but I have no need to tell you that a war against Prussia and Russia does not enter into the category.

Many rumors are in circulation as to the designs of the Emperor in regard to the late elections. His Majesty, however, owes his place to universal suffrage, and not to the divine right, and there is no danger of his adopting the suicidal policy of the King of Prussia. So that those who predict a coup d'état, in a reactionary sense, are no doubt as far from the mark as were those who predicted a revolution in case the opposition list was elected at Paris. His Majesty will, probably, not indicate to the country what he understands by the late election, nor what change in policy he is going to adopt, till the new Chamber meets next Winter. But everybody will then anticipate a removal of the restrictions on the Press and on speech.

In the meantime great efforts are being made by the opposition to increase the number of their members in the Chamber. M. HAVIN, who has been elected in two Districts, will accept the country District and place the First District of Paris at the disposal of his party for the election of another man, because the Paris District is certain to return an opposition member, while the country district is less sure. So too M. JULES FAVRE, who is elected in the Fourth District of Paris, and had a tie vote at Lyons, is going to run again at Lyons in order, if elected, to be able to resign at Paris and secure the election of a Democrat in his Paris District. In M. HAVIN's District, the opposition candidate will be probably M. DUFAURE, former Minister, and in M. FAVRE's district, Prof. LABOULAYE. In all the districts where there has been a tie vote, about a dozen in number, the opposition candidate will be generally elected, because generally there were several opposition candidates, who have all adopted the rule of retiring, at the second election, in favor of that candidate of their number who received the highest number of votes at the first election, and because, also, the example of Paris is going to react powerfully on the second elections, as well at Paris as in the Departments. In the Faubourg St. Germain, M. GUINOUET, editor of the Opinion Nationale, will be elected at the second election by an immense majority, both of the other opposition candidates having withdrawn, and the friends of the Government candidate being convinced of the utter uselessness of going to the trouble of voting. So, too, M. LAVERGNE, the able editor of the Gironde at Bordeaux, is likely to be elected at the second election, and there the four leading republican papers of the country will be represented in the Chamber—three of them, the Siècle, the Opinion Nationale and the Gironde, by their chief editors, and the Presse by two of its principal contributors, Messrs. DARIMON and PELLETAN. The power of these journals, too, in the control of the election, has been immense, and M. DE PERSIGNY, who has official control of the Press, has shown as little tact in the management of the campaign on the Government side as to bring himself almost into disgrace with the Government, and to render himself the laughing-stock of the journalists in general.

The Moniteur has thus far refused to publish Mr. SEWARD's Russian dispatch, as also the Constitutionnel, although the latter almost it, as it does everything coming from the same source. The other papers, however, have published it, but without comment.

We have news of Gen. GRANT's successes in the rear of Vicksburgh, up to the third assault on the interior works, and the highest praise is lavished upon that officer for his operations thus far. Whether successful or not in the taking of the place, his march from Grand Gulf is commented upon as showing the highest military ability.

By the new order of the War Department, all men enlisting in the regular army for five years' service, within ninety days, shall receive a premium, advance pay and bounty, of $402, as follows, viz: Premium paid on enlistment, $2; advance pay, first payment after muster, $13; advance bounty, paid at depot after being accepted, $25—total, $40. Bounty to be paid at the second regular pay day after enlistment, $50. Bounty to be paid at the first pay day after eight months' service, $50. Bounty to be paid at the first pay day after twelve months' service, $50. Bounty to be paid at the first pay day after two years' service $50. Bounty to be paid at the first pay day after three years' service, $50. Bounty to be paid at the first pay day after four years' service, $50. Bounty to be paid at the expiration of service, $75. The bounty of $400 aforesaid shall be allowed and paid to all now in the regular army whose terms expire within one year, and who shall reenlist within two months before the expiration of their present term of service.

CONSOLIDATION.

Under the requirements of section 20, of the act "for enrolling and calling out the National forces," whenever a regiment is "reduced below the minimum number allowed by law," but is of strength above half maximum, if it be infantry, it will be deprived of the Colonel and one Assistant Surgeon; each company minimum will be deprived of a Second Lieutenant. If cavalry, each regiment will be deprived of the Colonel, one Major and an Assistant Surgeon; each company reduced below the minimum, will be deprived of a Second Lieutenant. If artillery, each regiment will be deprived of the Colonel, one Major, and one Assistant Surgeon; each battery reduced below the minimum, will be deprived of the additional officers, authorized to be added at the President's discretion. The minimum for the object herein named will be 1,044 aggregate for a regiment, and 66 aggregate for a battery.

VALLANDIGHAM.

Hon. GEORGE H. PENDLETON, Chairman, and the other members of the delegation appointed by the Democratic Convention of Ohio to wait upon the President with reference to the return of VALLANDIGHAM, have had two interviews with the President, and stated to him in writing their object and purpose. A response will not probably be made before Monday.

REVENUE DECISIONS.

The Internal Revenue Commissioner has decided that all perfumery and cosmetics enumerated in Schedule C, of the Excise Law, are subject to the stamp duty, whether manufactured with or without private formula. They are also equally subject to stamp duty when sold in irregular packages and quantities, as when sold in regular packages. Perfumery and cosmetics put into and sold in bottles or packages, furnished by the purchaser, are also subject to stamp duty.

THE RHODE ISLAND ENROLLMENT.

The Rhode Island enrollment is complete. The whole number of names registered is 19,226. Aliens deducted, 3,161. The allotment is—first class, liable to draft, 9,748; second class, married men, 4,493; third class, soldiers in service, 1,824.

The Missouri State Convention.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Thursday, June 25.

The majority report of the Committee on Emancipation has been under discussion all day, but no action has been taken.

The President of the Convention received a dispatch from Gen. SCHOFIELD, stating that after a personal examination of VIRGINIA MERRIAMEC, he had ordered that gentleman to be sent beyond the lines for disloyalty.

Mr. HAGAN was expelled to-day for disloyalty.

JEFFERSON CITY, Friday, June 26.

Mr. BRECKINRIDGE's substitute for the report of the Committee on Emancipation was rejected in the Convention to-day by a vote of 7 ayes to 78 noes. The question then recurred on the adoption of the original ordinance. Col. WOLFORTH moved to amend by submitting the ordinance to the people in the State election of 1864, which was carried by a vote of 32 yeas to 29 nays.

Constitutionality of Legal-Tenders.

ALBANY, Friday, June 26.

In the Court of Appeals to-day, Messrs. Dorr and CURTIS were heard for the Bank Superintendent against the legality of legal-tender notes, and LYMAN TRUMAN replied. The argument on behalf of the banks will be continued to-morrow by Messrs. NOYES and PORTER.

Court of Appeals.

ALBANY, Friday, June 26.

The following is the Calendar of the Court of Appeals for Monday, June 29. Nos. 87, 400, 120, 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 127 and 942, calendar of 1862. Nos. 30 and 30½, involving the Legal Tender question, to be argued, and will consume to-day and to-morrow.

Amusements.

At the Brooklyn Atheneum, to-night, the Misses CHAPMAN, aged respectively 11 and 13 years, will give an entertainment consisting of readings, recitations and songs. They will be assisted by the Misses MYERS and other talent, promising, what they will doubtless give, a first-class entertainment.

DEAFNESS
NOISES IN THE HEAD,
Diseases of the Eye, Ear & Throat,
CATARRH CURED
BY
DR. VON EISENBERG.
Author of "Surgical and Practical Observations on the Diseases of the Ear, with his new Mode of Treatment."

NEW TESTIMONY.
NEW-YORK, May 4.
I was entirely deaf in my left ear, consequent upon a discharge. I placed myself under Dr. Von Eisenberg's care, who, by his great skill, restored me to perfect hearing, in the short space of a few minutes, without giving me the slightest pain, and the discharge has ceased entirely. The Eustachian Tube, which was obliterated, is quite open, and I feel that the air-passage performs its functions. I am amply satisfied, and recommend every one suffering from impaired hearing to place themselves under the treatment of this eminent and successful physician.
THOMAS GRANAN, No. 420 6th-av."

NEW-YORK, May 1, 1863.
I have great pleasure in testify to the skill of Dr. Von Eisenberg. I went into his office almost completely deaf, and came out with my perfect hearing. It is nearly twelve months since, and the hearing is perfect. The operation, which lasted two or three minutes in each of my ears, gave me no pain whatsoever. I, with confidence, recommend all sufferers to place themselves under Dr. Von Eisenberg's unsurpassing skill.
SAMUEL C. HUNT,
No. 6 Meserole-st., Greenpoint, L. I."

No. 126 MADISON-ST., NEW-YORK, Feb. 3, 1863.
I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a disagreeable discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.
I consulted Dr. Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain.
JOHN TAYLOR.

NEW-YORK, July 19, 1862.
This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, therefrom with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with a plug which lodged there, restoring her instantaneously, and all without pain. It is with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.
CARROLL J. POST, No. 29 South-st.

SIGHT RESTORED.
JUNE 26, 1862.
My daughter brought me to Dr. Von Eisenberg almost completely blind in both eyes. I could not bear the pain nor the light. I am completely cured by Dr. Von Eisenberg, and called now to express my gratitude to the Doctor for his skill and unremitting attention, by which I recovered one of the most precious senses to me after being deprived of it for four years. It is only due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to state that I have tried several physicians in vain. I shall be happy to bear personal testimony to Dr. Von Eisenberg's unrivaled success to any lady or gentleman who will call on me.
HUGH GILLON,
No. 76 Fulton-st., Brooklyn.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.
READ
New-York, March 28, 1863.
This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull bewildered feeling in the head. I felt my nose completely choked up, accompanied by continual soreness of the throat, the chills creeping over me with occasional hot flashes, against the sides of the chest and pain, so much so, that sometimes I thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with but little hope of a cure. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg with a certainty of being cured."

ROMAINE'S CRIMEAN BITTERS.
The editor of the Congressional Globe, Washington, D. C., says:
"Mr. Clement, of the general supply store, Capitol, has placed on our table a bottle of a celebrated tonic called "ROMAINE'S CRIMEAN BITTERS," so highly and satisfactorily used by the public, have already established as a safe, pleasant and beneficial tonic. Their reputation has become so universally established that it is unnecessary for us to say anything in their behalf. Merit will tell, and these bitters have merit."
Sold by all druggists.

REPUBLICAN CENTRAL COMMITTEE.—The regular meeting of the Executive Committee will be held at Republican Headquarters, on MONDAY EVENING, June 29, 1863, at 8 o'clock. By order,
A. J. WILLIAMSON, Chairman.
A. H. PALMER, Secretaries.
Jesse J. SHAW,

NEW-YORK, SEPT. 15, 1862.
Dr. Schenck:
DEAR SIR: This is to certify that your MANDRAKE PILLS and SYRUP TONIC have completely cured my wife of a congested liver of long standing, after all else was tried, almost daily, by our family physician, and the only thing he would prescribe for her were powerful emetics, until her system was completely worn out. Everything was tried for a year of no effect, but all to no purpose; and finally, my wife saw your advertisement in the paper, and concluded to go and see you, although she had little if any confidence in any doctors, after the experience she went through.
She has taken about four bottles of Tonic and three boxes of Pills, and now is in good health as she ever enjoyed in her life. I think this one of the most remarkable cures on record, and if publishing these lines will benefit the sick or afflicted you are at liberty to do so. CHARLES NEILL,
No. 180 7th-av., corner of 22d-st.
Dr. J. H. SCHENCK can be consulted at his principal office, No. 39 North 5th-st., Philadelphia, every Saturday, and at No. 32 Bond-st., New-York, every Tuesday; No. 168 Baltimore-st., Baltimore, Md., every other Thursday, and once a month in Boston, Mass.
Dr. SCHENCK'S principal office is at No. 39 North 5th-st., Philadelphia, Penn., where letters for advice should always be directed.
Dr. SCHENCK can be found at his rooms, No. 32 Bond-st., New-York, every Tuesday, from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M. for consultation and advice. He has always a supply of medicines at his rooms, which can be had at all times.
Price of the PULMONIC SYRUP AND SEAWEED TONIC, each $1 per bottle or $9 for half dozen. MANDRAKE PILLS, 25 cents per box.
For sale by JAS. S. ASPINWALL, No. 98 William-st., New-York, and by druggists and dealers generally.

EXCISE TAX LAW.
BY
CHARLES F. ESTES,
Late Deputy Commissioner of Internal Revenue.
1 vol., octavo, 365 pages.
Price, cloth, $1 50; sheep, $2.
"To lawyers and men of business generally this volume is a necessity, both for the fullness of its matter and the ease with which such matter can be referred to through the index. Of all the publications relating to the Internal Tax law this book appears to be the most complete, useful and reliable."—Boston Transcript.
"The official position held by the author not only gives authenticity to his work, but as it must have afforded to him every facility for its preparation, we may safely with confidence rest only on the correctness of the text, but may presume that we have here every material fact in the shape of law or document necessary for the solution of the thousand and one questions every day arising in the interpretation of the tax acts."—Boston Daily Advertiser.
"This is the most complete work of the kind yet given to the public clearly presented and arranged, so that the information can be easily reached."—Phila. Pub. Ledger.
"The last work upon such a subject as the Excise Law is usually the best; but Mr. Estes's book is not only in this view better than any other that has appeared upon that important subject, but it is the best one extant. * * * *"—Philadelphia Legal Intelligencer.
"* * * * This is by far the best book of the character yet published, and should be in the hands of every business man in the country. * * * Every lawyer, merchant, broker and mechanic, should possess one, and no library will be complete without a copy."—Chicago Dispatch and Price Current.
"* * * A valuable collection for all assessors and collectors, besides business men and lawyers. The style of the volume is convenient—it is, in fact, the best issue of the kind."—Boston Post.
"This work is precisely the interpretation needed and desired by every intelligent man who wishes to conform to the requirements of the law and at the same time fully understand its provisions. The information hitherto published has been fragmentary, and unsatisfactory; this furnishes it complete. * * *"—Hartford Publication.
"* * * This is by far the best book of its character yet published, and should be in the hands of every business man in the country. * * *"—Sing Sing Republican.

FINANCIAL.

LAKE ERIE AND PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY.

FIRST MORTGAGE SINKING FUND BONDS.

The Lake Erie and Pacific Railroad Company, in the State of Indiana, now offer for sale their entire issue of $600,000 First, and only, Mortgage Bonds bearing seven per cent. interest, payable semi-annually in the City of New-York.

These bonds are secured by a DEED OF TRUST, constituting the FIRST and ONLY lien upon the entire Road, its franchises, appurtenances, rolling stock, &c.

Its route is along the White Water Valley, from Rushville to Union, a distance of about sixty miles, and passes through the richest, best cultivated and most densely populated portion of the State of Indiana.

The road to the CENTRAL SECTION of the otherwise completed TRUNK LINE, connecting the great Southwest at LOUISVILLE, Ky., on the Ohio River, and at an early day with TOLEDO and SANDUSKY, on Lake Erie.

The Company is wholly without debt (except its bonded debt) and being strong in its local traffic, and connecting with roads that must necessarily largely increase the volume of its revenues, the BOARD OF DIRECTORS, with great confidence, invite the attention of capitalists to these securities, believing that they offer an opportunity for a first-class railroad investment, than which, in their judgment, there is no better to be had.

The published statements of the Company, together with a map showing the locality and advantages of the Road, can be had from either of the Trustees of the Bond of Trust, in this City, named below, and from either of whom the bonds are only to be had.

PROPOSALS FOR $1,000,000 CENTRAL PARK ADDITIONAL FUND STOCK.—Sealed proposals will be received at the Comptroller's office, until Monday, the 29th day of June, 1863, at 3 o'clock P. M., when the same will be publicly opened, for the whole, or any part of the sum of one million dollars of The Central Park Additional Fund Stock, authorized by Chapter 101 of the Laws of 1860, and by an Ordinance of the Common Council, passed by the Mayor, April 14, 1863.

The said stock will bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, payable quarter-yearly, and the principal to be redeemable in 1883.

The proposal will state the amount of stock desired, and the price per one hundred dollars thereof, and the persons whose proposals are accepted will be required to deposit with the Chamberlain of the City within five days after the opening of the bids, the sums awarded to them respectively.

On presenting to the Comptroller the receipt of the Chamberlain for such deposits, the parties will be entitled to receive certificates for equal amounts of the par value of the stock, bearing interest from the dates of payments.

Each proposition should be sealed, and indorsed "Proposals for Central Park Additional Fund Stock," and inclosed in a second envelope, addressed to the Comptroller.

The right is reserved to reject any or all of the bids, if the interest of the Corporation requires it.

PROPOSALS.

NAVY DEPARTMENT.

SEALED PROPOSALS FOR EACH CLASS separately, inclosed "Proposals for Class No. (name the class) for the Navy-yard at (name the yard)," will be received at the Navy-yard at (name the yard) until 12 o'clock, M., on the 15th day of July next, for supplying and delivering at the several Navy-yards therein named, the articles specified and described in the schedules, which will be furnished on application, by mail, if so requested, to persons desiring to bid, to contract for any or all of the classes named therein. The Commandants of the several Navy-yards will be furnished with copies of the schedules for their respective yards, and any person may obtain from the Navy-yard nearest thereto, or by the Bureau for any or all of the yards.

To prevent confusion and mistakes in sealing the offers, no bid will be received which contains classes for more than one yard or one class, and each individual of a firm must sign the bid and contract.

Bidders are hereby cautioned and particularly notified that their offers must be in the Bureau before the hour prescribed, and be entered in time to reach their destination before the opening of the bids; offers received after the time specified will be returned unopened; bids received after the time specified will be returned; and no allowance will be made for failures of the mail.

To guard against offers being opened before the time appointed, bidders are requested to indorse on the envelope, above the address, and draw a line under the endorsement, the following:

"Proposals for Class No. (name the class) for the Navy-yard at (name the yard)."

To the Chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks, Washington, D. C.

Form of Offer.

(Here date the offer.)

The undersigned, (here insert the name or names constituting the firm, with the title of the firm, as the case may be,) of (name the town,) in the State of (name the State) hereby offer to furnish under your advertisement of (date of advertisement,) and in accordance with the requirements of the same, and of the printed schedule to which it refers, all the articles enumerated in Class No. (name the class or classes) for the Navy-yard at (name the yard,) according to said schedule, viz: (here state the number of each class from the schedule, and the aggregate amount of each, at the price, and carry out the aggregate amount for the class, and the aggregate of the whole offer, including drayage or cartage to the place where used within the Navy-yards, respectively, for which the offer is made, as may be directed by the commanding officer;) and all other things being equal, preference will be given to American manufactures; offers will be received after the expiration of the period specified in the schedules for the completion of deliveries, unless specially authorized by the Department. In computing the classes, the prices inserted in the column of prices will be standard, and the aggregates of the class will be carried out according to the prices inserted.

All the articles under the contract must be of the best quality, delivered in good order, free of all and every charge or expense to the Government for delivery, and subject to the inspection, count, weight, or measurement of the said Navy-yard, and be in all respects satisfactory to the Commandant thereof. Bidders are referred to the yard in question upon specimens or samples, and any further description of the articles or explanations they may desire. When bidders shall be in doubt as to the precise articles named in the schedule, they will apply to the commanding officer of the Navy-yard and not to envelopes for description of the article or articles in doubt, which will be opened in the said offices will give the desired information.

Approved sureties in the full amount of the contract will be required, and twenty per centum as additional security deducted from each payment until the contract shall have been completed or canceled, unless otherwise ordered by the Department, and eighty per centum of the amount of all deliveries made will be paid by the Navy agent at within ten days after warrants for the same shall have been passed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

No part of the per centum reserved is to be paid until all the rejected articles offered under the contract shall have been removed from the yard, unless specially authorized by the Department.

It will be stipulated in the contract that if default shall be made by the parties of the first part in delivering all or any of the articles mentioned in any class bid, or of the quality and at the times and places above provided, then and in that case the said parties will forfeit and pay to the United States a sum of money not to exceed twice the amount of such class, which may be recovered, from time to time, according to the act of Congress in that case provided, approved March 3, 1843.

The sureties must sign the contract, and their responsibilities be certified by a Navy Agent, Collector, District-Attorney, Clerk of the District Court, or some other person satisfactorily known to the Bureau.

It is to be provided in the contract that the Bureau shall have the power of annulling the contract, without loss or damage to the Government, in case Congress shall not have made sufficient appropriations for the articles named, or for the completion of works estimated for, and on which this advertisement is based.

Persons whose offers shall be accepted will be notified by letter through the Post-office, which notice shall be considered sufficient; and if they do not enter into contract and have security specified within ten days from the date of notice from the Bureau of the acceptance of their bid, a contract will be made with some other person or persons, and the guarantors of such defaulting bidders will be held responsible for all delinquencies.

All offers must be made in strict conformity with this advertisement, with the guide of the Bureau, to be valid.

Those only whose offers may be accepted will be notified, and contracts will be ready for execution as soon thereafter as may be practicable.

OFFICE OF ASSISTANT COMMISSARY-GENERAL OF SUBSISTENCE, NEW-YORK, June 22, 1863.

PROPOSALS WILL BE RECEIVED BY the undersigned until 4 o'clock P. M. on SATURDAY, the 27th inst., for supplying, for the use of the United States Army, SUBSISTENCE STORES, to be delivered in New-York or Brooklyn, as follows, viz.: For delivery on the 6th of July:

500 barrels first quality new MESS PORK, or PRIME MESS PORK, to be full salted, 200 lbs. meat, in full-hooped oak barrels, with two iron hoops; meat to be free from rust or stains.

1,463 barrels of first quality NEW EXTRA MESS BEEF. The meat to be packed in full-hooped oak barrels, with two iron hoops.

Five barrels to be examined as a sample before accepting the bids, and to be retained until all shall be delivered.

75,000 pounds first quality THOROUGHLY SMOKED NEW BACON SIDES.

25,000 pounds of first quality thoroughly cured SMOKED HAMS. Proposers will state whether their Hams are pickled-cured or dry-salted, also their average weight.

The bacon and hams to be delivered in bulk for inspection and packing in place (to be named by the Office of New-York or Brooklyn as may be designated).

280,000 pounds of first quality fresh-made PILOT BREAD, to be made of good sound extra flour, manufactured from Winter wheat; crackers to be thoroughly baked and perfectly dried, to be packed, pressed and of size, thickness, dimensions, &c., to conform to standard samples, which can be examined at this office; to be packed in boxes of 50 pounds bread to each box; boxes to be made of fully-seasoned wood, of such kinds as will impart no taste or odor to the bread; bottom and top of single piece, or if, two pieces, jointed and grooved together. Boxes to be strapped with light straps of suitable wood. The Flour and Bread will also be examined by the Inspector, who will reject all that in the quality of the flour or in any other respect is inferior to the standard samples. Bidders to state the location of their bakeries.

1,875 bushels of first quality NEW WHITE BEANS, well seasoned and dry—to be packed in good, bright, well coopered flour barrels, to be full head-lined with green hickory.

500 bushels first quality SPLIT PEAS, 60 pounds to the bushel, to be packed in tight half barrels, like samples to be seen at this office.

62,640 pounds of RICE, in clean, good, stout oak barrels, like samples to be seen at this office.

12,500 pounds first quality white flint corn HOMINY in well-coopered head-lined barrels.

3,750 pounds carefully selected TEA, in original packages, ¼ Green, ¼ Souchong, ½ Oolong; packages to be well stamped and in perfect order. Cargo and Chop-marks to be stated on the proposals. Each sample must be marked in full with the name of the party offering, the cargo and chop-mark price and quantity offered.

Bidders are requested not to offer more than two samples of each kind of Tea.

119,500 pounds of dry, light-yellow COFFEE SUGAR, or choice, dry RAW SUGAR; samples to be as any and of the best in use for the purpose, and to be full head-lined.

7,500 GALLONS of the best quality of PURE VINEGAR, made only from Cider or Whisky, free from all foreign acids and injurious substances, and of a uniform strength; the Whisky-Vinegar taking thirty-five grains of bi-carbonate of potash to neutralize one fluid ounce, the Cider-Vinegar or near the same strength as may be, to be put up in half barrels of 32 gallons capacity, like samples at this office. Each proposal must state distinctly the kind and quality of Vinegar offered.

9,375 pounds best quality of ADAMANTINE CANDLES, to be 16 ounces to the pound, one half sixes, the remainder twelves.

30,000 pounds of good hard SOAP. Bidders to give the location of their manufactories.

2,250 bushels of good, clean, dry, fine SALT, in strong, tight barrels and half-barrels, adapted to the purpose, with full head-lining; thirty pounds to the bushel.

62,500 pounds first quality DRIED APPLES, in strong, tight barrels.

For delivery on the 13th of July, 1863, the same quantity as above.

For delivery on the 20th of July, 1863, the same quantity as above.

For delivery on the 27th of July, 1863, the same quantity as above.

POTATOES—Such quantity as may be required during the month of July, 60 pounds to the bushel, in good, ordinary, well-coopered barrels.

Proposals for different articles must be on separate sheets of paper.

Small samples to accompany proposals for all articles except meats.

Each bid must have a printed copy of this advertisement posted at its head, and must be specific in complying precisely with all the terms. Each bid, to have consideration, must contain the written guaranty of two responsible names, as follows:

"We, the undersigned, hereby guarantee that should all or any part of the above bid be accepted, it shall be duly fulfilled according to its true purport and conditions; also, that a written contract, with bonds in the amount of one-fourth the value of the stores proposed to be furnished, shall be executed, if required."

Bidders may propose for the whole or a part of any article.

Certificates of inspection by professional packers or inspectors, other than the party furnishing the provisions, will be required for all the meats, certifying, on the part of the packer, their present quality and condition, and the immediately preceding inspection. The meats will also be examined and passed upon by Robert P. Getty, Inspector on the part of the United States. The seller's name, place of business, with date of purchase, is required on each package of every article.

All the stores will be carefully inspected before their delivery, and compared with the retained samples. Returns of weights, signed by a professional Public Weigher, must be furnished whenever required.

Payment, therefore, to be made in such funds as may be furnished by the United States.

Contractors are expected to hold their goods, without expense to the United States, until required for shipment.

Proposers whose bids are not accepted, are requested to send for their samples on FRIDAY, 3d July, 1863.

Blanks for Proposals will be furnished at this office, which must be inclosed in an envelope, addressed to the undersigned, and indorsed "Proposals for Subsistence Stores."

PROPOSALS.

PROPOSALS FOR HAY, STRAW AND OATS.

ARMY QUARTERMASTER'S OFFICE, FRANKLIN DEPARTMENT, corner of 23 and 24-sts., WASHINGTON, D. C., April 20, 1863.

Written proposals are invited for furnishing HAY, STRAW, OATS and CORN for the use of this depot, to be delivered at the railroad depot, or at any of the Government wharves, viz.:

The proposals to be addressed to the undersigned, and there opened under the authority of each bidder affixed, also the price and the date of delivery.

Bids for hay will be received for five thousand tons, bundles of Corn or Oats, and fifty (50) tons of Hay or Straw, and upward, unless it should be for the interest of the Government to contract for a less amount.

All grain to be put up in good sacks, of about two (2) bushels each, which are to be furnished at the cost of the contractor.

The Hay and Straw to be securely bound.

All Oats and Hay offered to be subject to a rigid inspection by the Government inspector.

Contracts will be awarded from time to time to the lowest responsible bidder, if the interest of the public may require. Good security will be required for the faithful fulfillment of any contract made under this advertisement.

Payment to be made at the completion of the contract.

THE REBEL PIRATES.

FURTHER DEPREDATIONS OF THE TACONY.

Burning of the Schooner Wanderer and Other Vessels.

A SIDE-WHEEL STEAMER ON FIRE.

Three Pirates at the Mouth of the Bay of Fundy.

[Dispatches to the Merchants' Exchange.]

YARMOUTH, N. S., Friday, June 26.

The packet schooner Monitor, from Boston, reports as follows:

"At 12 o'clock, last night, Antrywallen went by south of Yarmouth, fell in with a large ship, burned to the water's edge, name unknown. She was still burning, and in tow of two Westport schooners. At 4 o'clock, this morning, saw a steamer standing southwardly; she partially changed her course and speed two or three times. Saw a similar looking steamer on Wednesday, seventy miles east of Cape Ann, standing northeast."

YARMOUTH, N. S., Friday, June 26.

The schooner Monitor, from Boston, makes the following report:

"This morning when thirty miles west of Yarmouth Cape, saw an American ship on fire, and a steamer painted lead color near her."

PORTLAND, Me., June 26, 1863.

The schooner Julia Rhoe, from the Bay of Fundy, arrived to-day, and reports a large steamer, a bark and a three-masted schooner, at the mouth of the Bay, destroying vessels. They had burned the schooner Archer, of Southport, and bonded a bark—name unknown.

[Dispatches to the Associated Press.]

PORTLAND, Me., Friday, June 26.

Fishing vessels arrived here report a large rebel steam bark and a three-masted schooner off Cape Sable, Nova Scotia, burning our fishing vessels. They spoke the ship Angelo, of Boston, which had been captured and bonded for $60,000, and was bound for New-York with the crews of three burned fishing vessels.

BOSTON, Friday, June 26.

The schooner Vision, at Wellfleet, reports that on Tuesday last, at 3 P. M., twelve miles south-southwest of the South Shoal Light, saw a side-wheeled steamer of about 700 tons on fire. Remained by her until the dark. Could not ascertain her name.

GLOUCESTER, Cape Ann, Friday, June 26.

The schooner Crusader has just arrived from the Fishing Banks, and reports that on Thursday at 11 A. M., twenty-five miles W. S. W., from Chatham, heard heavy firing, supposed to be from a U. S. gunboat, which heard here the evening previous.

GLOUCESTER, Friday, June 26.

The fishing schooner Vanguard has arrived here from the Banks, and makes the following report:

"On Tuesday, saw the schooner Wanderer, of Gloucester, on fire on the west end of George's. At the same time, thirty fishermen were in sight. Saw nothing of the pirate."

MOVEMENTS IN BOSTON.

THE REBELS CHARTERED.

[From the Boston Transcript, June 25.]

The Naval Agent at this port has to-day chartered and armed the steamships Admiral Dupont and Daniel Webster, which will sail before night in search of the Tacony. Their armaments are small but powerful. The Shawmut will undoubtedly be dispatched to-morrow. No more sailing vessels will be taken for this purpose, but steamers only.

The war steamer Iron Age and Bourgos received orders to-day to sail immediately, and will probably be off at sea before midnight. The revenue cutter Morris sailed early this morning.

A PRIZE OFFERED.

BOSTON, Thursday, June 25.

The underwriters met yesterday, at a meeting held to-day, decided to offer a bonus of $10,000 for the capture of the Florida No. 2, and will dispatch an armed vessel in pursuit to-morrow or next day.

ARRIVAL AT THIS PORT OF THE SCHOONER FLORENCE.

The schooner Florence, (fishing,) of Gloucester, Capt. GARDNER, arrived at this port last night, from a fishing cruise off Nantucket, and reports, on the 22d inst., at 5 P. M., while on the banks, was boarded by the privateer Tacony and bonded, on condition that she would receive on board the Captain and crew of the ship Byzantium, Capt. ROBINSON, of the bark Good Speed, Capt. DUNTON, which vessels were captured previously and burned. Capt. GARDNER consented and brought them safely to port.

We subjoin the statements of the Captains of the Byzantium and Goodspeed.

STATEMENT OF CAPT. ROBINSON, OF SHIP BYZANTIUM.

Sailed from London May 15, bound to New-York. On June 20, lat. 41° 30', long. 65° 30', was spoken by United States gunboat Blackstone, in search of a bark-rigged privateer. June 21, 30 miles E. S. E. from Nantucket light-boat, about 4 A. M., being hazy and nearly calm, saw a bark close alongside, who hailed the American and then fired a gun, not shotted. In a few moments she fired a shell close to the ship. I then discovered her character, and finding it impossible to escape, hove to. He then sent an armed boat alongside, when the officer in charge came on board and informed me that my vessel was a prize to the Confederate States, and allowed the fifteen minutes to take what things I could and go on board the bark with my crew and my own boats. After arriving on board, my crew were ordered down in the hold, when the captain requested me to make myself comfortable while I remained on board the privateer. In thirty minutes the Byzantium was in flames, when the privateer stood to southward. At 11 A. M., saw two barks ahead, one with the English ensign and the other American. The latter proved to be the bark Goodspeed, of New-York. A boat was sent to her, and the captain and crew brought on board the privateer. At 6 P. M., light breeze and foggy; set the boats on fire and then steered northeast all night. At 10 A. M., thick and light breeze from east, captured schooner Morengo and set her on fire. At 5 P. M., fog lifted, and then saw two fishing vessels. Took the schooner Florence, Capt. GARDNER, and bonded the vessel, releasing her on condition to take the prisoners on board to New-York. We were then sent on board the Florence, while the privateer's boat went in chase of others. The fishing vessels, seeing the bark and one vessel bonded, supposed it to be a prize, and came right in the bark. At 9 P. M. three of them were on fire, viz: Elizabeth Ann, Capt. THOMAS, Rufus Choate, Capt. HAYS, Rapido, Capt. GRAVES. We then had 76 paroled men on board the Florence. At 8¼ a blue light was burning, and we were allowed to proceed to New-York. Wind at the time W. N. W. and light. Capt. REAS, of the privateer, expressed that he did not seek to destroy the fishing vessels, but having drifted among them, deemed it his duty to burn them.

STATEMENT OF CAPT. DUNTON, OF BARK GOODSPEED.

Sailed from Londonderry May 20, for New-York. Nothing of interest transpired during the passage until the morning of the 21st inst., being 40 miles southeast from Nantucket. At 9 A. M. saw a bark, with English ensign flying; stood for him; the wind was light from northeast, and foggy; spoke him and gave him his longitude; shortly after saw a sail standing to the South, and after some time discovered the American flag flying, apparently requiring assistance, it being nearly calm. I rounded to and he at the same time hove to, and sent his boat with armed men on board. I was then informed that my vessel was a prize to the Confederates, and to take a bag of clothes and go on board the bark. I took what I could get and proceeded on board the bark, which proved to be the Tacony, of Philadelphia, or Florida No. 2. I was invited into the cabin, and the crew were sent below. I found on board Capt. ROBINSON, of the ship Byzantium, bound for that morning. The Goodspeed was in flames at 1 P. M. The privateer then stood to northeast all night, and at 10 A. M. of the 22d saw the fishing schooner Morengo, which crew was also brought on board and the schooner burned. During this time there was a thick fog and little wind. At 5 P. M., the fog lifted, when we found ourselves in a fleet of fishing vessels. Three of them were burned—schooners Elizabeth Ann, Capt. THOMAS, Rufus Choate, Capt. SMITH, and sloop Rapido, GRAVES. The schooner Florence, Capt. GARDNER, was then captured and bonded, and we were all put on board of her to proceed to New-York. At 9 P. M., being short of water, a portion of the men left at No-Man's-Land. We then proceeded to New-York, where we arrived on the 26th.

THE ALABAMA AND GEORGIA.

The correspondence of the Merchants' Exchange and News Room, Nos. 30 and 32 Pine-street, says:

"The rebel steamers Alabama and Georgia were still at Bahia on the 16th of last month, when a British bark. The authorities took no notice, but then were no signs of their obeying the order which the brig St. Peter, at Boston, left."

POSTSCRIPT.

SATURDAY, 4 O'CLOCK, A. M.

THE REBELS IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Stirring Proclamation from Gov. Curtin.

60,000 MILITIA CALLED FOR.

PROCLAMATION BY GOV. CURTIN.

PENNSYLVANIANS:

In the name and by the authority of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, ANDREW G. CURTIN, Governor of said Commonwealth:

A PROCLAMATION.

The enemy is advancing in force into Pennsylvania. He has a strong column within its southern counties of Harrisburgh, and other columns are marching by Fulton and Adams Counties; and it can no longer be doubted that a formidable invasion of our State is in actual progress.

The calls already made for volunteer militia in the exigency have not been met as fully as the crisis requires.

I therefore now issue this my proclamation calling for sixty thousand more to come promptly forward to defend the State. They will be mustered into the service of the State for a period of sixty days, but will be required to serve only for so much of the period of muster as the safety of our people and the honor of our State may require.

They will rendezvous at points to be designated in the General Order to be issued this day by the Adjutant-General of Pennsylvania; which order will also set forth the details of the arrangements for their organization, clothing, subsistence, equipment and supplies.

I will not insult you with inflammatory appeals. A people who want the heart to defend their soil, their families and their firesides, are not worthy to be accounted men.

Heed not the counsels of evil-disposed persons, if such there be, in your midst. Show yourselves what you are—a free, loyal, spirited, brave, vigorous race.

Do not undergo the disgrace of leaving your defence mainly to the citizens of other States.

In defending the soil of Pennsylvania, we are contributing to the support of our National Government, and vindicating our fidelity to the National cause.

Pennsylvania has always heretofore responded promptly to all the calls made by the Federal Government, and I appeal to you not now to be unmindful that the foe that now strikes at our State, strikes through our desolation at the life of the Republic.

Our people are plundered and driven from their homes, solely because of their loyalty and fidelity to free institutions.

People of Pennsylvania! I owe to you all my faculties, my labors, my life! You owe to your country your prompt and zealous services and efforts. The time has now come when we must all stand or fall together in the defence of our State and in support of our Government. Let us discharge our duty so that posterity shall not blush for us. Come heartily and cheerfully to the rescue of our noble Commonwealth. Maintain now your honor and freedom.

Given under my hand and the great seal of the State at Harrisburgh, this the 26th day of June, A. D., 1863, and of the Commonwealth the 87th.

By the Governor, A. G. CURTIN.

ELI SLIFER, Secretary of the Commonwealth.

LEE'S MOVEMENTS.

PHILADELPHIA, Friday, June 26.

The Washington Star of this evening says:

"Last night the rebels occupied Fairfax Court-House with a guerilla force, somewhere between 100 and 500 strong—the place having been previously vacated by the Union troops, who were recently there. These troops are now elsewhere employed in the front.

The rebel occupation of that point gave rise to a story that Fairfax Court-house was burned last night, which is untrue, though currently believed in Alexandria.

As there can be no necessity for its continued Union occupancy under existing circumstances, the chances are that the guerrillas will make their appearance about there also this afternoon.

The trains of LEE's army were crossing the Potomac all last night. We hear that this indicates that he has crossed, or is now crossing, his other corps—HILL's and LONGSTREET's.

There are to-day other indications that he designs operating with almost the whole of his army north of the Potomac."

IMPORTANT FROM THE SOUTHWEST.

ANOTHER EXTENSIVE RAID IN MISSISSIPPI.

MEMPHIS, Tuesday, June 23, via CAIRO, Thursday, June 25.

Official intelligence from Gen. GRANT's army to the 20th inst., is received. JOHNSTON is said to have withdrawn his troops from across the Big Black, moving toward Clinton.

About one thousand Texans attacked Lake Providence on the 10th, but were repulsed with loss, by the negro troops, who fought bravely.

Col. PHILLIPS, with 800 cavalry, was attacked by 200 rebel infantry and 1,000 cavalry, under ROCKERFORD, on the Tallahatchie. The fight was very severe. Col. PHILLIPS lost 7 killed and 90 wounded. He cut his way out and came in yesterday.

The rebels are in force at Booneville. Gens. HENRY, RUSSELL, CHALMERS and BUFFLES threaten our lines, and troops are reported to be moving north from Okatona.

Stirring news may be expected from this section.

MEMPHIS, Wednesday, June 24.

Col. MISENER has just returned from an extensive cavalry expedition south from Lagrange. He reports having broken up the command under GRESSE, at Panola, destroyed the railroad bridge at Jackaway, the trestle work just beyond, and a portion of the road from there North; he then crossed the Tallahatchie, pursued CHALMERS beyond the Coldwater, on the Helena road. CHALMERS endeavored to cross the Tallahatchie at the mouth of the Coldwater, when MISENER killed 12 or 20 of his men, and took 40 prisoners. He paroled all the sick at Panola, brought away or destroyed all army supplies, workshops, mills, canneries, depots, &c.

He passed within three miles of Austin and Commerce, destroying an immense amount of forage and subsistence; took from 500 to 600 horses and mules, 200 head of cattle; sent detachments north and east from Helena, to destroy or bring away all subsistence, forage, horses, mules, &c.; passed through five counties, traveled 200 miles and crossed three rivers. CHALMERS had with him STOKES, SUMNERS and BUTLER's men, 900 strong, with three pieces of artillery. The remainder of his force, 900, fled south, and Charleston. PHILLIPS destroyed all the ferries at Panola and Coldwater; lost one man killed and five wounded. His fight at Tallahatchie was very severe. The enemy's loss was over 100.

A large number of conveyances raised in Northern Mississippi, joined FAULKNER's, CHALMERS, RUSSELL and ROSSY, who had arranged a movement on our lines, which was broken up by this raid.

Gen. GORMAN had made a speech at Oxford, Miss., threatening to force into service every man in the country if companies were not organized to refit in JOHNSTON.

There is no news from Gen. GRANT's army since yesterday.

Heavy rains have fallen here and at Corinth.

Gen. Franklin Ordered to New-Orleans.

PHILADELPHIA, Friday, June 26.

Gen. FRANKLIN has been ordered to a command in Louisiana under BANKS. He is now here, and will pass by New-Orleans by the 3rd steamer.

DEATH OF REAR-ADMIRAL FOOTE.

The public will not be unprepared to learn of the decease of Rear Admiral ANDREW H. FOOTE. The painful disease under which he has suffered (albuminuria) left no hope of his recovery, and for days his friends have waited, with what resignation they could, for the hour of his departure. He died last night, at half-past 10 o'clock, at the Astor House, and is now beyond all mortal anguish.

Admiral FOOTE (the final e was added from caprice) was born at Cheshire, New-Haven County, Conn., on the 12th of September, 1806. He was a son of the late Gov. SAMUEL A. FOOTE, of Connecticut, who, when a Senator of the United States, introduced the famous FOOTE resolution, from which resulted the memorable debate between DANIEL WEBSTER and ROBERT Y. HAYNE. Young FOOTE entered the navy as a Midshipman in 1822, and his first cruise was in the schooner Grampus, under Commodore GADSDEN, after pirates in the East Indies, six months of his time being passed in open boats in the search for the outlaws was prosecuted. In 1827 he received his appointment as Passed Midshipman, and in 1830 was commissioned a Lieutenant. In 1842 he was Flag Lieutenant of the Mediterranean squadron, and in 1846 he circumnavigated the globe with Com. REID, as First Lieutenant of the sloop-of-war John Adams, participating in an attack on the pirates of Sumatra, and rendering assistance to the American missionaries in Honolulu, who had been persecuted by the French naval commander on that station. He steadily rose in his profession, and was made a commander on the 12th of December, 1855, under which commission he saw about two years and three months' sea service, part of the time on the coast of Africa. In 1856 he commanded the corvette Portsmouth on the China station, and exerted himself in the protection of American property during the hostilities between England and China. Stationed at Canton, he landed a marine force to protect the French and American factories. On returning to his vessel, the Chinese opened fire on him from the Barrier Forts, when he displayed the American flag, but the firing did not cease. Commodore FOOTE at once had an interview with Commodore ABBEDEEN, of the flag-ship San Francisco. (ABBEDEEN was the officer who, in the Spring of 1861, surrendered the Pensacola Navy-yard.) FOOTE wished to "open" on the Chinese forts; ABBEDEEN thought he had better negotiate. FOOTE said load and iron were the best peacemakers. ABBEDEEN finally consented, and FOOTE got under weigh the Portsmouth and Levant, to the latter grounded. FOOTE brought his ship within seven hundred yards of the forts, and opened fire, continuing it until the forts ceased to return his fire. Then he landed forces at two or three points, and went at the forts again. When they surrendered, FOOTE started on a run to get first inside, but Lieut. WATSOURNE, of Philadelphia, being lighter, beat FOOTE, and was ahead of him in entering, but FOOTE was only second in the race.

At the breaking out of the present troubles he was Executive-Officer of the Brooklyn Navy-yard, and soon after the commencement of hostilities was commissioned a Captain in the navy. He was appointed Flag-Officer of the Western flotilla, succeeding Commodore ROGERS, Feb. 4, 1862, and sailed from Cairo with a fleet of seven gunboats, of which four were iron-clad, to attack Fort Henry, on the Tennessee River. The story of its surrender, and that of Fort Donelson, a week afterward, is fresh in the memory of our readers. At Fort Donelson he was wounded in the ankle by the fragment of a 64-pound shot. Though obliged to move on crutches, he proceeded to Bontage Island No. 10, on the capture of which, he applied for and received leave of absence, and left for his home in New-Haven. When restored to health he was appointed Chief of the Bureau of Equipment and recruiting, at Washington, which he held till last July, when he was appointed one of the nine Rear Admirals on the active list.

On Admiral DUPONT being relieved from his command of the South Atlantic blockading squadron Admiral FOOTE was appointed to succeed him, and came to this city for the purpose of embarking, when he was seized with the severe and painful illness, which has terminated his life.

Admiral FOOTE was distinguished for his devotion to his principles as a consistent Christian and total abstainer from intoxicating drinks, being the first to introduce total abstinence in the navy. Just before leaving for the seat of war on the Western waters he took an active part in religious movements. His noble efforts for his country in the hour of danger, under a destructive fire, and in the face of the enemy, show him to have been as brave as he was good.

He has displayed considerable literary ability in a series of papers on Japan, which country he was among the first to visit. On the vital issue of the country, his patriotic sentiments were well known as strongly opposed to Slavery. Several valuable essays from his pen have appeared against the slave trade, at home and abroad, the result of his faithful services on the coast of Africa.

Admiral FOOTE was twice married. His first wife was Miss FLAGG, of Cheshire, by whom he had a daughter, now married. His second wife was a Miss AUGUSTA SEARS, of New-Haven, by whom he had three sons, two of whom have died within a year. He leaves a widow, a son and daughter.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

A Horrible Case of Suicide and Probable Murder in the Twentieth Ward.

A terrible tragedy occurred at a late hour on Thursday night, in the Twentieth Ward, which resulted in a woman named Mrs. JOHN PAAS taking her own life by means of a dose of strychnine. The particulars of the affair are briefly these: Mr. JOHN PAAS, residing at No. 583 Eighth-avenue, by occupation a hardware merchant, has for some time past had in his employ a good-looking girl, who goes by the name of NELLIE. She was formerly a servant in the family, but recently she had been promoted to the position of housekeeper for Mr. PAAS, and had been treated as one of the family.

Mrs. PAAS for some time became dissatisfied with the girl's conduct toward her husband, and took measures to assure herself of the real state of the case. On Thursday night she found her husband and NELLIE together under circumstances which exasperated her, as a wife, to the highest degree. She therefore procured a bottle of oil of vitriol, and coming suddenly upon the girl, threw it into her face. The result was to put out both of the girl's eyes, and otherwise injure her so much that no hopes are entertained of her recovery. Mrs. PAAS then took from a bottle a large dose of strychnine and swallowed it. She died immediately. Some of the facts of the case have been suppressed, for reasons best known to the authorities, but the foregoing are reliable in every respect. Coroner RAINEY has the case in charge, having already commenced an inquest. He will continue the examination to-day, and on his part is determined to give the affair a thorough investigation.

The Ruggles Will Case.

We are informed that there were errors in the report of the Ruggles' will case, as published in our columns on Thursday morning, which deserve correction, in justice to Mr. NUMOIS. Neither the questions or answers were correctly given. The examination was not such as to test the fullness of the recollection of Mr. NUMOIS, and his testimony bore no such complexion as it was made by the report to wear. The report (which did not come through our regular channels) assumed throughout a partisan character, which we regret.

The causes of the late rebel raids into Maryland and Pennsylvania have been variously explained. Some say they came after medicines, of which they are very short, and others that they wanted boots and shoes; but the fact is, that the ministers of the Southern Confederacy are hunting after EDDY's beautiful new style of Hats for Summer wear. They will have to invade New-York to procure samples of these styles, as EDDY is exclusive and independent, and keeps his splendid head gear at one place only—viz: at the northeast corner of Fulton-street and Broadway.
